JFK's Tax Bid Under Fire

Hundreds, Possibly Thousands, Die In Massive Peru Avalanche

12-Yard-Deep Mass Buries Andean Village

LIMA, Peru (AP)—A 12-yard-deep mass of mud, rock and melting ice, sluiced down a towering mountainside by an enormous avalanche, entombed the Andean village of Ranrahirca and most of its 500 people Thursday.

Peruvian officials feared hundreds more in the area may have died in one of the worst disasters of its kind. Their fears were based on fragmentary reports, however.

In the first shock of the disaster which struck Wednesday night, some officials speculated that the final toll might be around 3,000 casualties. But later they said it would be some time before they could determine the full extent of the disaster because of broken communications.

7,000 Live In Area

"In eight minutes Ranrahirca was wiped off the map," said Mayor Alfonso Caballero in one of the few reports from the area. He said only 50 of the nearly 500 residents survived in Ranrahirca, a village 200 miles northwest of Lima and 30 miles north of the hot springs resort of Huaraz.

More than 7,000 persons lived in surrounding ranching and mining communities and in the nearby district of Yananiac.

Another survivor, Dr. Leoncio Guzman, who barely escaped from a nearby settlement, expressed the opinion the death toll would reach 3,000.

"It looked like everyone in Ranrahirca had been buried by the ice, rocks and mud," he said.

Because of the depth of the debris only two bodies had been recovered.

Ranrahirca, a 9,000-foot altitude village surrounded by the snowtopped peaks of the Huascaran Mountains, and the nearby communities were settling down peacefully.

"Hellish" Sound

Then, at dusk, huge chunks of ice from a glacier, loosened by Peru's summer sun, crashed down and started a gigantic flood of water and snow down the slope.

It came with a "hellish" sound, said a survivor, ripping and tumbling trees, crushing houses, engulfing livestock.

The only warning was the roar and a cloud of dust raised over the onrushing slide as it swept over arid land.

Planes were dispatched with relief supplies, and troops went to work to open roads.

Fireman's Work Can Be Icy

The ice isn't on fireman Irvin Bent's eyebrows, it's on the wool cap he's wearing under his helmet, but it made little difference—air temperature was 9 degrees below zero as Bent and his colleagues fought a four-alarm blaze at a furniture store on the fringe of Milwaukee's downtown area yesterday. (AP Photofax)

100-MPH Winds Kill 6 Britons

LONDON (AP)—Toppling trees killed at least six Britons as winter winds screeched across Britain at up to 100 miles an hour Thursday. Two ships sank in churned-up coastal waters and others called for help.

Rain lashed in on the crest of the gale from the southwest and sent rivers to the top of their banks. Approaches to the Severn River disappeared under a foot of water with warnings of worse floods to come. Flood waters gushed through houses at several points on the coast.

One ship that sank was the 561-ton British vessel Fordfield, which capsized in the English Channel. Her nine-man crew was picked out of tossing seas by the Danish steamer Perla Dan.

Gizenga Yields To Parliament Return Order

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A humbled Antoine Gizenga reversed himself Thursday and promised to heed a parliamentary summons to answer charges of secessionism. He telegraphed the promise from Stanleyville, his old stamping ground 775 miles northeast of this city.

An authoritative source said the Communist-backed deputy premier knuckled under only after trying and failing Wednesday to get his Stanleyville police to arrest Congolese Gen. Victor Lundula and members of a U.N. commission investigating the Kindu massacre.

Official reports from Stanleyville said the police were confused and divided and returned to their barracks without carrying out his orders. The commissioners were not molested.

The Kindu case involves the slaughter of 13 Italian U.N. airmen last November by drunken soldiers of a regiment nominally loyal to Gizenga. So far all have gone unpunished.

By a vote of 66-10, Parliament ordered Gizenga to return within 48 hours to take up the Leopoldville post he abandoned last fall.

Gizenga had telegraphed Adoula a sarcastic declaration that he would not return until Katanga's secession—to be wiped out under the Kitona agreement—is finally ended.

In his about face, Gizenga did not specify a date, but indicated he will show up here soon.

Speaker Crashes Ladies' Luncheon Unintentionally

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker John McCormack burst in on a ladies' luncheon Thursday, unexpected and uninvited—though he thought he was.

Both he and the women, including the First Lady, Jacqueline Kennedy, were a bit bewildered at first. But all recovered quickly with handshakes and smiles all around and McCormack leaving, asked: "Where is that telegram?"

It turned out the telegraphed invitation had been for Mrs. McCormack, and it was signed by Mrs. Orville L. Freeman, wife of the secretary of agriculture and cochairman of the committee for the Kennedy inaugural anniversary dinner Jan. 20.

"I thought it was from Orville," McCormack said as he reread the telegram.

Niagara Ice Jam Threatens Homes

The Niagara River, swollen with ice and driven by westerly winds, spilled inland 75 feet from the shore on Cayuga Island. Some cellars were flooded by seepage and roads on the western tip of the one mile by two mile island were closed by flooding.

A spokesman for the State Power Authority said the ice was building up three miles above the majestic Niagara Falls. He said the intake of water for the Robert Moses generating station was reduced overnight so engineers could study the effect of the ice.

Crews Inching Toward Bodies Of 11 Miners

CARTERVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Rescue teams inched cautiously through the depths of Blue Blaze Mine No. 2 Thursday toward the bodies of 11 miners entombed by an explosion.

It had been determined earlier by the same rescue teams that the miners apparently had died instantly in the explosion shortly after 6 p.m. Wednesday.

The bodies were sighted early Thursday—one at the bottom of the 168-foot shaft, two others nearby and eight bodies some 500 feet from the shaft, where the coal vein was being worked.

Before the rescue teams, equipped with oxygen masks, could reach the dead, the mine had to be ventilated. Clean, fresh air was being pumped into the pit to supplant the deadly gases that had accumulated after the blast.

Methane gas was believed to have caused the explosion, but investigators declined to state so positively. The mine, opened only six months ago by the Blue Blaze Coal Co., was described by some of its employes as one of the most modern in the state.

Several hundred of this town's population of about 2,700 huddled in small knots near the mine office after announcement that the miners had been found dead.

Company officials permitted only a handful of relatives in the mine office, close to the scene of rescue operations. The other onlookers stood around small outdoor fires, blazing against the 5-above-zero temperature.

Claude Jentry, owner of the company, said it appeared that the blast originated in the mine's vertical shaft. It wrecked the building that houses the elevavtor mechanism and machinery used to unload coal from gondola cars.

Yugoslav Area Rocked By Destructive Quakes

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) —Yugoslavia's scenic resort area on the Adriatic Sea buckled and tossed Thursday in a destructive series of earthquakes. Heavy damage extended as far as 60 miles inland.

Strong morning shocks were followed, as predicted, by lesser but still terrifying and damaging quakes in the evening.

The second wave of shocks, after dark, sent thousands of people out of their homes in fear of being crushed to death, and many spent the night exposed to heavy rain and wind.

First reports indicated casualties may have been light. The area had been hit by quakes four days ago and many people were alert to the dangers.

One death was reported, many persons were injured and uncounted homes were destroyed.

It stressed that there were only a few victims because people fled from their homes in time.

The newspaper Politka quoted Novica Sumic, of Podgora village, who dug out the body of a victim and who was among the first to flee to Split, as saying: "We are a courageous people, but this was too much to stand."

Jet Hits Fire Truck On Takeoff; Three Die

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) —A U.S. Navy TV2 jet airplane crashed into a fire truck while taking off from the Kingsville Auxiliary Naval Air Station Thursday. Three Navy men on the truck were killed and a fourth man injured.

Navy officials said the dead were all enlisted personnel. Their names were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Injured was William L. Bates, 41, of Kingsville. Bates, a civil service employe, was the driver of the truck. The pilot of the airplane, Cmdr. John O'Donnell of Lynhaven, Va., and a fifth man on the fire truck escaped injury.

Republicans, Some Demos Oppose Move

Kennedy Requests Standby Authority To Cut Income Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Partisan tradition prevailed for the most part Thursday in congressional reaction to the State of the Union report from Democratic President Kennedy—but that tax-cut talk gave Republicans a fresh target and they lost no time shooting at it.

By and large, Democrats pointed with pride at the message as a whole and described it in such terms as "wise and sensible," "tremendous and eloquent," "strong and forceful."

Republicans, in the main, viewed with alarm what they saw as a continued drive toward more centralized government and excessive spending.

Several Republicans and some Democrats objected vigorously to Kennedy's request for standby authority to lower income taxes temporarily by executive order—not, they made clear, because they're against tax cuts but because they feel any cutting should be done by Congress.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., saw political dynamite in the tax-cut proposal, saying: "Any President could use that in the middle of a political campaign. Then Congress would be made the goat if it had to raise them later."

Byrd Opposes Such Power

Sen. Homer E. Capehart, R-Ind., expressed belief the granting of such power to the President would be unconstitutional and said, "I think Congress ought to cut them itself."

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., called the tax proposal "the most preposterous suggestion of all." Rep. Thomas M. Pelly, R-Wash., said the idea "makes me shudder—it is an open-end invitation for a tax cut before every major election, whether justified or not."

The Republicans were supported on this point by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Virginia Democrat who often opposes Kennedy measures. Byrd, chairman of the tax-handling Senate Finance Committee, said he would fight not only the tax-cut authority but also the President's request for a standby public works program to fight recessions. He said he feels both "would be in fundamental violation of the Constitution."

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., usually an administration supporter, said "I would have to be convinced" of the wisdom of the executive tax-cutting authority.

Douglas Leans Toward Approval

Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., on the other hand, said he feels executive tax-cutting, with adequate safeguards, would be sound. He indicated he personally might favor giving the President authority to raise taxes temporarily, too, but acknowledged this might encounter constitutional objections not applicable to tax-cutting.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the Senate majority leader, said the message has the mark of greatness and "points the way, first, to what must be done at home for the progress of all our citizens. On that base, it plots a course of national leadership for the advance of peace and freedom in the world."

The Republican Senate leader, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, said the tax-cut proposal and other Kennedy requests for added authority "will make the New Frontier blaze with controversy." He added that the message as a whole resembles "a Sears Roebuck catalog with the old prices marked up."

Police Clear Store After 'Bomb' Found

MIAMI (UPI) — Police cleared hundreds of shoppers and employes from the block-square downtown Sears, Roebuck and Co. department store Thursday, then gingerly removed a bomb-like device.

Bomb experts said the device looked so lethal that they would not examine it to determine its exact nature.

It was found in a third floor men's rest room of the store about 11 a.m. by an unidentified customer who reported it to the manager.

The device was a gallon glass jug with what appeared to be a stick of dynamite stuffed inside of it. At the top of the jug was a flashlight-type battery and a common pocket watch. The whole rig was wired, soldered and sealed with adhesive and cellophane tape in what police described as "a very professional piece of work."

11 Records Broken By U.S. Jet Bomber

B52H Flies 12,519 Miles Non-Stop

TORREJON, Spain (UPI)—A U.S. Strategic Air Force eight-jet B52H bomber roared in from Okinawa Thursday on "Operation Persian Rug"—a 12,519-mile flight half way around the world without stopping or refueling.

The giant bomber with nine men aboard was in the air for 22 hours 10 minutes before it rolled to a stop with a big yellow air brake parachute trailing behind it at the U.S. Air Force Base here at 8:10 a.m. EST. It broke 11 distance and speed records.

The plane averaged 575 miles an hour over the full flight and reached top speeds of 666 as it demonstrated the ability of SAC to reach any target on earth. The plane under combat conditions can carry two Hound Dog guided missiles or four nuclear-armed Sky Bolt ballistic missiles.

The B52H flashed over the field 18 minutes earlier at the end of its flight from Kadena Air Base, Okinawa. Both times will be filed with the International Aeronautic Federation for confirmation as official records.

The plane was piloted by Maj. Robert Carson, 45, of Flint, Mich., and the plane commander was Maj. Clyde P. Evely, 39, of Petersburg, Va., who called it a "real fine flight—it went just as we had planned with 200 pounds of fuel in reserve."

With that much fuel in reserve, a spokesman said, the plane easily could have flown on "to Africa or England."

The big mark broken today was the 1946 flight of the Navy P2V Neptune bomber "Truculent Turtle" which flew 11,235 miles from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, Ohio, in 55 hours 18 minutes. The piston engine flight also was without refueling.

Another mark shattered was the previous world record for a non-stop, non-refueled flight by a jet aircraft, set in 1958 by an Air Force KC135 jet tanker covering 10,299 miles.

Immediately after the B52 rolled to a stop, an Air Force band played "The Stars And Stripes Forever" and Maj. Gen. David Wade, commander of the 16th Air Force, presented each of the crew members with a Distinguished Flying Cross.

Polar Invasion Called 'Fantastic'

It was supplied by Jerome Namias, chief of the Weather Bureau's extended forecasts branch.

What hit the country, Namias said in an interview Thursday, was "an extremely unusual blob of cold polar air."

It was unusual in both severity and extent. It "dominated the whole country," stretching from the west to the east and south coasts.

"It is breaking records, particularly in the South," Namias said.

Namias said it is doubtful that polar invasions of such vast extent occur oftener than every 30 or 40 years.

Firm Ordered To Halt Threats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board Thursday ordered the Cone Bros. Construction Co. of Tampa, Fla., to quit threatening to shoot down employes "like a covey of birds." The board held such threats had been made during a 1960 union organizing strike.

A three-man NLRB panel unanimously upheld findings of the trial examiner, George A. Downing, that the Florida road building firm, and its co-owned Tampa Sand & Material Co., had engaged in "flagrant and widespread" unfair labor practices.

The NLRB approved Downing's findings that activities of Cone and Tampa Sand in providing arms to nonstriking employes "plainly frustrate the policy" of the federal labor relations law "to encourage settlement of labor disputes by peaceful means."

Vast Program Is Laid Down By President

Nation's Chief Says U. S. Is Prepared To Fight For Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy asked a hushed, hesitant Congress Thursday for unparalleled power to slash taxes and tariffs as part of a partnership for progress in a nation "ready to seize the burden and glory of freedom."

Standing in the rostrum of the House chamber where he used to serve, the man who has been president not quite a year laid down for the months ahead a program of vast proportions and as yet vague details.

The great goals he outlined are a strong and growing economy, a healthy, prosperous, well-educated people, awesome military might, and, overriding all else, an end to what Kennedy called a global civil war that "has divided and tormented mankind."

"And," the President told the Senate and House, "while no nation has ever faced such a challenge, no nation has ever been so ready to seize the burden and glory of freedom. And in this high endeavor may God watch over the United States of America."

The greatest burst of applause from the Congress members assembled before the President and the jammed galleries above came when Kennedy said the situation in Berlin still is threatening and unpredictable then added: "We are prepared to talk, when appropriate, and to fight, if necessary."

Foreign Diplomats Present

The State of the Union message looked both forward and backward; its proposals were part old, part new. And some of the old ones offered the biggest surprises:

On civil rights, Kennedy had pledged legislative action when he campaigned for the White House but resorted only to executive action once he got there. There were signs he planned to continue relying on executive powers in this area. But Thursday he called for legislation to outlaw literacy tests and poll taxes as voting requirements. He said this is just one example of what he wants.

On aid to education, the chief executive had urged a bill that would provide federal assistance for school construction and teacher salary increases—but not for private or parochial schools. This measure was sidetracked in a scrap over the religious issue and the widespread expectation was that Kennedy would veer away from it this time.

Instead, he didn't retreat an inch on the broader bill and nudged Congress to shove it through at this session.

Six-Point Economic Package

The chief executive asked Congress to give him standby authority to lower personal income taxes and to speed up federal public works spending as insurance against future economic recessions. He proposed, too, a permanent strengthening of the system for payments to people out of jobs.

These were three of the six points in an economic package designed to put props under a now surging economy.

Kennedy also recommended training men put out of work by machines, assisting a million jobless young people to find work, and providing industry an eight per cent investment tax credit as an incentive for expansion.

"The time to repair the roof," Kennedy said, "is when the sun is shining."

Then, as expected, the chief executive bore down on a projected "bold and new instrument of American trade policy"—one

Cold Wave Retains Grip; Death Toll Reaches 123

By The Associated Press

The cold wave swept across New England Thursday and set new records in the shivering south.

But many communities in the West and Midwest emerged from the subzero cellar in a day of bright sunshine but chilling winds.

The tally of deaths blamed on the snow and cold that began in some areas last week rose to 123. Of the total 21 were attributed to exposure, 66 to heart attacks suffered while shoveling snow or pushing stalled cars, and 36 to traffic accidents on icy or snowy streets and roads.

At daybreak freezing cold blanketed all of the nation except the peninsula of Florida and a strip along the Pacific coast, nipping and stinging the vast majority of the country's 185 million residents.

Among the readings were -49 in Fraser, Colo., -39 in Laramie, Wyo., and -25 in Pueblo, Colo.—places conditioned to arctic air—and to -4 in Cullman, Ala., and -2 in Yazoo City, Miss., in unconditioned Dixie.

The 15 above in Pensacola, Fla., established a record low for January there. Mobile, Ala., had 8 above, the lowest for January on record books that span 90 years. East Mobile Bay was frozen for a distance of 300 to 500 feet from shore.

GOP Maps Strategy To Win Congress

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) —Strategy seeking to win control of Congress and rout Democrats on other fronts was mapped Thursday by Republican leaders.

The GOP spotlight probably will be snapped directly on this year's congressional races Friday as Rep. William E. Miller, R-N.Y., the party's national chairman, and Rep. Robert Wilson, R-Calif., speak here at opening sessions of the Republican National Committee.

Republican state chairmen, principally from the Midwest and West, held a work session Thursday to prepare for the 1962 campaigns. It included discussion of such problems as advertising, poll-taking, political research and fund-raising.

The big mark broken today was the 1946 flight of the Navy P2V Neptune bomber "Truculent Turtle" which flew 11,235 miles from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, Ohio, in 55 hours 18 minutes. The piston engine flight also was without refueling.

Another mark shattered was the previous world record for a non-stop, non-refueled flight by a jet aircraft, set in 1958 by an Air Force KC135 jet tanker covering 10,299 miles.

Immediately after the B52 rolled to a stop, an Air Force band played "The Stars And Stripes Forever" and Maj. Gen. David Wade, commander of the 16th Air Force, presented each of the crew members with a Distinguished Flying Cross.

Gizenga Yields To Parliament Return Order

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A humbled Antoine Gizenga reversed himself Thursday and promised to heed a parliamentary summons to answer charges of secessionism. He telegraphed the promise from Stanleyville, his old stamping ground 775 miles northeast of this city.

An authoritative source said the Communist-backed deputy premier knuckled under only after trying and failing Wednesday to get his Stanleyville police to arrest Congolese Gen. Victor Lundula and members of a U.N. commission investigating the Kindu massacre.

Official reports from Stanleyville said the police were confused and divided and returned to their barracks without carrying out his orders. The commissioners were not molested.

The Kindu case involves the slaughter of 13 Italian U.N. airmen last November by drunken soldiers of a regiment nominally loyal to Gizenga. So far all have gone unpunished.

By a vote of 66-10, Parliament ordered Gizenga to return within 48 hours to take up the Leopoldville post he abandoned last fall.

Gizenga had telegraphed Adoula a sarcastic declaration that he would not return until Katanga's secession—to be wiped out under the Kitona agreement—is finally ended.

In his about face, Gizenga did not specify a date, but indicated he will show up here soon.

Speaker Crashes Ladies' Luncheon Unintentionally

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker John McCormack burst in on a ladies' luncheon Thursday, unexpected and uninvited—though he thought he was.

Both he and the women, including the First Lady, Jacqueline Kennedy, were a bit bewildered at first. But all recovered quickly with handshakes and smiles all around and McCormack leaving, asked: "Where is that telegram?"

It turned out the telegraphed invitation had been for Mrs. McCormack, and it was signed by Mrs. Orville L. Freeman, wife of the secretary of agriculture and cochairman of the committee for the Kennedy inaugural anniversary dinner Jan. 20.

"I thought it was from Orville," McCormack said as he reread the telegram.

Niagara Ice Jam Threatens Homes

The Niagara River, swollen with ice and driven by westerly winds, spilled inland 75 feet from the shore on Cayuga Island. Some cellars were flooded by seepage and roads on the western tip of the one mile by two mile island were closed by flooding.

A spokesman for the State Power Authority said the ice was building up three miles above the majestic Niagara Falls. He said the intake of water for the Robert Moses generating station was reduced overnight so engineers could study the effect of the ice.

Crews Inching Toward Bodies Of 11 Miners

CARTERVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Rescue teams inched cautiously through the depths of Blue Blaze Mine No. 2 Thursday toward the bodies of 11 miners entombed by an explosion.

It had been determined earlier by the same rescue teams that the miners apparently had died instantly in the explosion shortly after 6 p.m. Wednesday.

The bodies were sighted early Thursday—one at the bottom of the 168-foot shaft, two others nearby and eight bodies some 500 feet from the shaft, where the coal vein was being worked.

Before the rescue teams, equipped with oxygen masks, could reach the dead, the mine had to be ventilated. Clean, fresh air was being pumped into the pit to supplant the deadly gases that had accumulated after the blast.

Methane gas was believed to have caused the explosion, but investigators declined to state so positively. The mine, opened only six months ago by the Blue Blaze Coal Co., was described by some of its employes as one of the most modern in the state.

Several hundred of this town's population of about 2,700 huddled in small knots near the mine office after announcement that the miners had been found dead.

Company officials permitted only a handful of relatives in the mine office, close to the scene of rescue operations. The other onlookers stood around small outdoor fires, blazing against the 5-above-zero temperature.

Claude Jentry, owner of the company, said it appeared that the blast originated in the mine's vertical shaft. It wrecked the building that houses the elevavtor mechanism and machinery used to unload coal from gondola cars.

Police Clear Store After 'Bomb' Found

MIAMI (UPI) — Police cleared hundreds of shoppers and employes from the block-square downtown Sears, Roebuck and Co. department store Thursday, then gingerly removed a bomb-like device.

Bomb experts said the device looked so lethal that they would not examine it to determine its exact nature.

It was found in a third floor men's rest room of the store about 11 a.m. by an unidentified customer who reported it to the manager.

The device was a gallon glass jug with what appeared to be a stick of dynamite stuffed inside of it. At the top of the jug was a flashlight-type battery and a common pocket watch. The whole rig was wired, soldered and sealed with adhesive and cellophane tape in what police described as "a very professional piece of work."

Polar Invasion Called 'Fantastic'

It was supplied by Jerome Namias, chief of the Weather Bureau's extended forecasts branch.

What hit the country, Namias said in an interview Thursday, was "an extremely unusual blob of cold polar air."

It was unusual in both severity and extent. It "dominated the whole country," stretching from the west to the east and south coasts.

"It is breaking records, particularly in the South," Namias said.

Namias said it is doubtful that polar invasions of such vast extent occur oftener than every 30 or 40 years.

Firm Ordered To Halt Threats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board Thursday ordered the Cone Bros. Construction Co. of Tampa, Fla., to quit threatening to shoot down employes "like a covey of birds." The board held such threats had been made during a 1960 union organizing strike.

A three-man NLRB panel unanimously upheld findings of the trial examiner, George A. Downing, that the Florida road building firm, and its co-owned Tampa Sand & Material Co., had engaged in "flagrant and widespread" unfair labor practices.

The NLRB approved Downing's findings that activities of Cone and Tampa Sand in providing arms to nonstriking employes "plainly frustrate the policy" of the federal labor relations law "to encourage settlement of labor disputes by peaceful means."

Yugoslav Area Rocked By Destructive Quakes

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Yugoslavia's scenic resort area on the Adriatic Sea buckled and tossed Thursday in a destructive series of earthquakes. Heavy damage extended as far as 60 miles inland.

Strong morning shocks were followed, as predicted, by lesser but still terrifying and damaging quakes in the evening.

The second wave of shocks, after dark, sent thousands of people out of their homes in fear of being crushed to death, and many spent the night exposed to heavy rain and wind.

First reports indicated casualties may have been light. The area had been hit by quakes four days ago and many people were alert to the dangers.

One death was reported, many persons were injured and uncounted homes were destroyed.

It stressed that there were only a few victims because people fled from their homes in time.

The newspaper Politka quoted Novica Sumic, of Podgora village, who dug out the body of a victim and who was among the first to flee to Split, as saying: "We are a courageous people, but this was too much to stand."

Jet Hits Fire Truck On Takeoff; Three Die

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) —A U.S. Navy TV2 jet airplane crashed into a fire truck while taking off from the Kingsville Auxiliary Naval Air Station Thursday. Three Navy men on the truck were killed and a fourth man injured.

Navy officials said the dead were all enlisted personnel. Their names were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Cold Wave Retains Grip; Death Toll Reaches 123

By The Associated Press

The cold wave swept across New England Thursday and set new records in the shivering south.

But many communities in the West and Midwest emerged from the subzero cellar in a day of bright sunshine but chilling winds.

The tally of deaths blamed on the snow and cold that began in some areas last week rose to 123. Of the total 21 were attributed to exposure, 66 to heart attacks suffered while shoveling snow or pushing stalled cars, and 36 to traffic accidents on icy or snowy streets and roads.

At daybreak freezing cold blanketed all of the nation except the peninsula of Florida and a strip along the Pacific coast, nipping and stinging the vast majority of the country's 185 million residents.

Among the readings were -49 in Fraser, Colo., -39 in Laramie, Wyo., and -25 in Pueblo, Colo.—places conditioned to arctic air—and to -4 in Cullman, Ala., and -2 in Yazoo City, Miss., in unconditioned Dixie.

The 15 above in Pensacola, Fla., established a record low for January there. Mobile, Ala., had 8 above, the lowest for January on record books that span 90 years. East Mobile Bay was frozen for a distance of 300 to 500 feet from shore.

GOP Maps Strategy To Win Congress

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Strategy seeking to win control of Congress and rout Democrats on other fronts was mapped Thursday by Republican leaders.

The GOP spotlight probably will be snapped directly on this year's congressional races Friday as Rep. William E. Miller, R-N.Y., the party's national chairman, and Rep. Robert Wilson, R-Calif., speak here at opening sessions of the Republican National Committee.

Republican state chairmen, principally from the Midwest and West, held a work session Thursday to prepare for the 1962 campaigns. It included discussion of such problems as advertising, poll-taking, political research and fund-raising.

Hospital Welfare Boost Asked

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Tawes has agreed to increase by $800,000 the state's health budget for care of welfare patients in Maryland hospitals, doubling the normal annual boost in four areas.

The money will be used to purchase hospital care for indigent and medically indigent patients at 80 per cent of year-old costs.

This still falls short of the goal set by the Hospital Council of Maryland, which wants reimbursement based on projected costs rather than past figures. Reimbursement currently is based on two-year-old figures.

The council commended the governor's decision, but said the action would not provide sufficient funds to reimburse hospitals for 30 per cent of anticipated costs for the fiscal year 1963.

If approved by the legislature next month, the increased benefits would become effective July 1.

The additional money would be applied to the general hospital inpatient program, special hospital care, crippled children and outpatient programs.

Tawes' action would increase the total appropriation request for the four categories from $11.6 million to $12.4 million.

Kennedy Rights Ideas Assailed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy called on Congress Thursday for new civil rights legislation. It was a surprise move that immediately brought criticism from both sides in this continuing controversy.

Kennedy didn't spell out fully what he wants Congress to do, but he urged the elimination of literacy tests and poll taxes as requirements for the exercise of voting rights.

Civil rights proponents, particularly Republicans, said the President's proposals are inadequate. But his ideas raised hackles among Southern members of Congress.

Kennedy told the legislators in his State of the Union message that his administration "has shown as never before" how much could be done by the use of executive powers to secure the constitutional rights of all citizens.

Five Air Guard Officers Perish In Plane Crash

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — "The plane exploded as soon as it hit. They didn't have a chance."

The words were uttered by Capt. John Rothhaar, a Civil Air Patrol officer who arrived minutes after a crippled C-47 crashed and burned Wednesday night killing five Air National Guard officers.

The twin-engine plane developed trouble shortly after take off from Greater Pittsburgh Airport and the pilot, Capt. Charles Griffith, tried in vain to make an emergency landing at nearby Allegheny County Airport. He missed by four miles and the plane crashed near the South Park Fairgrounds.

Col. Edward Bollen, group commander, worked with an Air Force Advisory team in examining the wreckage in an effort to determine the cause of the engine failure.

that would empower him to eliminate some tariffs entirely and cut others in half in an effort to work out a satisfactory economic way of life with the growing European Common Market.

"The Communist market is moving ahead," Kennedy said. "The Communist economic offensive is under way. The opportunity is ours—the initiative is up to us—and I believe that 1962 is the time."

Kennedy gathered in 38 salvos of applause during his 53-minute, 6,000-word report on the state of the union.

Some Senate and House members applauded when he mentioned wiping out some tariffs and halving others, but they sat silent when he bid for authority to cut income tax rates and go in for pump-priming spending to ward off a business slump.

In addition to these two points there were other new ideas of a less controversial nature. Nobody complained about the unveiling of a suggestion for a "massive attack" on adult illiteracy. There was even a bit of applause when Kennedy proposed taking advantage of modern advances in vaccination to launch "a mass immunization program" aimed at wiping out polio, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

In the domestic arena alone there were more than a score of proposals for legislation, plus those in the field of foreign policy.

In addition to the six-point plan to encourage economic growth and head off recessions, Kennedy had key suggestions for:

1. Higher postal rates, a plugging of tax loopholes and another extension of present excise and business taxes—all of which he said are essential to the balanced budget he promised for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

2. A new federal department of urban affairs and housing to give these areas a seat of equality at the Cabinet table; legislation on mass transportation and against crime and air pollution.

3. A new public welfare program to get away from the dole and put the emphasis on training and rehabilitation of the needy; tougher food and drug laws and a crackdown on the sale of narcotics.

4. Health insurance for the elderly financed through Social Security — only the Democrats applauded that. Kennedy failed to get it last year and the chances still are dim.

5. A "common sense" farm program to be covered in a separate special message. Kennedy said it is designed to prevent either "a national scandal or a farm depression."

6. A special long-term $3-billion fund to step up financial backing for the Alliance for Progress—the huge, $20-billion 10-year program Kennedy has sponsored for economic and social improvement in the neighboring Latin-American nations.

7. The purchase of $100 million —Kennedy omitted the figure—of bonds in order to "keep the United Nations solvent."

State Agency Urged To Woo Small Business

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A member of the Maryland Economic Development Commission suggested Thursday that the group might consider concentrating more of its effort to attracting small business to the state.

Commissioner Irving Weil of Frederick made his suggestion after listening to almost an hour of discussion of the Economic Development Department's part in the push to secure more work for the Martin Marietta aircraft missile plant at Middle River.

"I suggest we make a pitch more toward employers of 100, 200 or 300 people rather than those employing 1,000," Weil said.

Harry A. Boswell Jr., commission chairman, said this would represent a "substantial change" in the present policy of the economic development unit. Boswell said the agency currently devotes the same amount of attention to all industrial prospects, large or small.

"Any community is better off with 50 small businesses than two or three large ones," Weil said. "When a community loses a big industry, like Martin, it really makes a shambles . . ."

"If we attract small business, and have a thriving small business community, big business will follow," Weil added.

Weil's comments came after George W. Hubley Jr., director of the state Economic Development Department, had completed a briefing on the agency's role in the Martin Marietta situation.

Hubley told of meetings with Robert Farrar, president of Local 738 of the United Auto Workers in Baltimore, and briefed the commission on meetings between the governor and Maryland congressmen and with Secretary of Labor Goldberg.

Beall Asks Federal Advice On Saving-Loan Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., has asked seven federal agencies for advice on how to deal with Maryland's savings and loan problem.

In letters delivered Thursday to the heads of the various agencies, Beall asked if they thought a congressional investigation or federal legislation was needed. Each official was asked to describe the work of his agency relating to the savings and loan industry.

"We are trying to determine what we should do here, if anything," said Ben Whitehurst, an assistant of Beall. "The senator is very much concerned over this scandal."

The Republican senator addressed his inquiries to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, Postmaster General J. Edward Day, chairman Paul Dixon of the Federal Trade Commission, and chairman William L. Cary of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Also to Neal J. Hardy of the Federal Housing Administration, P. N. Brownstein of the Veterans Administration, and Joseph P. McMurray of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

CAN THIS PRESCRIPTION BE REFILLED?
This question occurs scores of times in any drug store. The answer to it is probably yes—unless there are excellent reasons why it must or should not be refilled. Federal law forbids the refilling of prescriptions containing certain potent drugs. For medical reasons, a physician may mark any prescription not to be refilled, or he may limit the number of refills. The pharmacist's expert knowledge may warn him that a refill might be unwise or even dangerous in a particular situation. However, if none of these conditions apply, then your prescription probably can be refilled.
Here, at Walsh-McCagh we do refill many prescriptions every day. However, we also try to work hand-in-hand with your physician in giving you the best possible treatment for your condition. Sometimes, the worst possible thing to do is to keep on taking the medicine in that old prescription without the advise of a doctor.
Your Walsh-McCagh pharmacist is dedicated to serving the public health and never sells any prescription merely for the sake of profit. This is what he is trained to do, and why he is licensed to handle dangerous drug products. So if you are told that your prescription cannot be refilled by one of our pharmacists, chances are he is doing you a favor. He is trying to merit the trust you and thousands of other Cumberland citizens place in him by making Walsh-McCagh their prescription headquarters.

CAN THIS PRESCRIPTION BE REFILLED?
This question occurs scores of times in any drug store. The answer to it is probably yes—unless there are excellent reasons why it must or should not be refilled. Federal law forbids the refilling of prescriptions containing certain potent drugs. For medical reasons, a physician may mark any prescription not to be refilled, or he may limit the number of refills. The pharmacist's expert knowledge may warn him that a refill might be unwise or even dangerous in a particular situation. However, if none of these conditions apply, then your prescription probably can be refilled.
Here, at Walsh-McCagh we do refill many prescriptions every day. However, we also try to work hand-in-hand with your physician in giving you the best possible treatment for your condition. Sometimes, the worst possible thing to do is to keep on taking the medicine in that old prescription without the advise of a doctor.
Your Walsh-McCagh pharmacist is dedicated to serving the public health and never sells any prescription merely for the sake of profit. This is what he is trained to do, and why he is licensed to handle dangerous drug products. So if you are told that your prescription cannot be refilled by one of our pharmacists, chances are he is doing you a favor. He is trying to merit the trust you and thousands of other Cumberland citizens place in him by making Walsh-McCagh their prescription headquarters.

Baltimore Port Area Industrial Center Planned

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Canton Co. of Baltimore announced Thursday plans for a $30 million center for research, commerce and industry on a 200-acre site in the city's highly industrialized port district.

To be known as Canton Center, the project will go up on a two-mile curving arc of rolling land which is largely wooded and void of any building.

The company said the aim is to complement Baltimore's downtown redevelopment project, the multi-million-dollar Charles Center, with revitalization of the port district. The same real estate consultants will be used.

Conceived as the focal point for the industrial park is one Canton Center, a two-story structure with a third level below ground. The circular, thin-shelled building of steel and concrete will have an interior free of columns. Wide expanses of glass will form the four sides of the building, set into the curved overhang of the shell.

Besides serving as headquarters for the development, one Canton Center will have space for a branch bank, a post office, a cafeteria, restaurant and lounge, professional offices and meeting rooms.

The Canton Co. is a railroad and real estate firm which also operates one of this port's finest ore piers. It is a wholly-owned subsidiary of International Mining Corp. of New York, a diversified natural resources firm with extensive interests in gas, oil, mining and allied fields.

The site of the new park has access to the main freight lines of the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and Western Maryland railroads.

Landscaping is expected to preserve the scenic quality of the area. The total work force is estimated at 2,300 and the annual payroll at more than $12 million, with 80 to 90 per cent of the employes to come from local communities.

Fire Extinguisher Safety Reminder Given Boatmen

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Tidewater Fisheries Commission has issued a reminder to boatmen that carbon tetrachloride fire extinguishers are no longer approved for boats.

The only types which will pass federal or state inspection are foam, CO2 or dry chemical types, William B. Matthews, director of boating, said.

The Coast Guard adopted the regulation because of the danger of released fumes in enclosed places which could cause suffocation. The state followed suit in changing its regulations, effective Jan. 1.

Matthews said such extinguishers may still be kept aboard boats but will not be sufficient to pass inspection.

Councilwoman Will Seek Another Term

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Stella B. Werner announced Thursday she will seek Democratic nomination for another term as a member of the Montgomery County Council.

Mrs. Werner has been a member of the council since 1950. She is a resident of Chevy Chase.

Robert C. Heeney, 39, a Rockville attorney, filed his intention Thursday to seek the Republican nomination for state's attorney in Montgomery County.

Heeney, who lives near Laytonsville, was the Republican nominee for the same office four years ago. He was defeated in the general election by the present state's attorney, Leonard T. Kardy, a Democrat.

Baltimore Women To Join 'Peace Strike'

BALTIMORE (AP) — A group of Baltimore women said Thursday they will journey to Washington Monday to join with other women from throughout the nation in what they termed an "international strike for peace."

Dr. Katharine Whiteside Taylor, coordinator for the local group, said the women would demonstrate in front of the White House.

Some 100 Baltimore women took part in a similar demonstration last Nov. 1 at which time an appeal was made to all American women to suspend their regular routines in "an appeal for the future of mankind."

Baltimore Apartment Project Considered

BALTIMORE (AP) — A prominent American developer from Dallas, Tex., said Thursday he was investigating the possibility of constructing high-rise apartment buildings in downtown Baltimore.

Leo F. Corrigan Sr., whose holdings stretch from Texas to Georgia and from Minnesota to Louisiana, said he would like to erect the apartments on the perimeter of the new Charles Center, a Baltimore renewal project now underway.

Corrigan said the buildings could be constructed on land which had secondary value in relation to the renewal.

13-Star Flag To Fly Over Maryland's Statehouse

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes plans to hoist a 13-star flag over the Maryland Statehouse Monday to celebrate the 178th anniversary of the Treaty of Paris which recognized America's independence.

The treaty was ratified in the statehouse, where the Continental Congress was then in session, Jan. 14, 1784.

Diplomats from England, France, Holland and Sweden are expected for the ceremony, which is being held a day late because the actual anniversary date falls on Sunday.

Gov. Tawes expressed hope in a proclamation that the ratification date eventually will become a national holiday.

"The day is as significant as the Fourth of July," Tawes said. "In the Declaration of Independence, we Americans said we were free. In the Treaty of Paris, England agreed."

The 13-star flag will fly from atop the wooden dome of the historic statehouse, which has been in continuous use as a capitol since it was built shortly before the Revolutionary War. The governor will hoist the flag on a 410-foot lanyard.

The Annapolis Chamber of Commerce has arranged for local merchants also to display 13-star flags representing the states that then made up the United States.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — Perry O. Wilkinson, speaker of the House of Delegates from Prince Georges County, says he agrees with Gov. Tawes' statement that a grand inquest of the savings and loan industry would be fine as long as it is conducted for good purposes.

Wilkinson, the newest member of the governor's election ticket for the May 15 primary, commented on Tawes' previous statement: "My thinking is right with his."

OLNEY, Md. (AP) — The regional office of Civil Defense here will test an area circuit of sirens Saturday by sounding them for one minute in Washington, D.C., Prince Georges and Montgomery counties in Maryland and Arlington and Fairfax counties in Virginia.

BALTIMORE (AP) — U.S. Atty. Joseph D. Tydings of Maryland has named one of his assistants as a special assistant to handle cases against savings and loan associations.

Tydings gave the designation to Arnold M. Weiner so Weiner can also practice law privately. Weiner prosecuted one of the state's first savings and loan cases with Leon H. A. Pierson, then Maryland's U.S. attorney.

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Mrs. Henry M. Ridgely, who counted among her friends such notables as Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Mrs. Wendell Wilkie, died Thursday at the age of 90.

Her husband, who died in 1940, was president of the Farmer's Bank in Dover for many years and also served as president of the Delaware Board of Education.

Savings-Loan Firm To Close

BALTIMORE (AP) — The owner of a small savings and loan firm in Wheaton, Md., just outside Washington, said Thursday he was closing the business.

Arthur A. Peisner, who recently bought the Armed Forces Savings and Loan Association — also known as United Armed Forces of Washington and Wheaton—said he plans to reinburse all depositors of the firm in full.

Peisner, a 42-year-old Washington attorney, was sentenced last Friday to three years in federal prison after he was convicted of transporting obscene books from Maryland to New Jersey in 1958. He indicated he would appeal and is free on bond.

Peisner bought Armed Forces from James L. Kane, 44, of Silver Spring, Md., last Oct. 18. Kane since has been indicted by a federal grand jury on mail fraud charges. He was accused of distributing an advertising pamphlet through the mails which made false claims about the savings and loan firm in an effort to secure depositors.

Peisner said deposits totaled about $60,000 when he took the firm over, but that they had since dwindled to some $20,000 because of refunds to depositors.

Couple Celebrates Anniversary

The 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Kuhlman, formerly of Cumberland and LaVale, was celebrated at a surprise party given by their son, Philip, at their home, 5526 McGregor Blvd., Fort Myers, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Kuhlman were married December 31, 1936, in St. Patrick's Church, Cumberland. Before moving to Fort Myers, five years ago, he was owner and operator of a used car lot. Mrs. Kuhlman was an office clerk at Steinla Motor Company. Now they both are associated with SeaView Awning Company, Fort Myers. Philip is their only child.

Silver bells were used in the decorations. An arrangement of white roses, tipped with silver and silver fern, and a cake, decorated with silver bells and "25" adorned the table. Silver appointments were used. Mrs. Kuhlman was presented a silver dime corsage by her son.

NBS Week Observance Outlined

New officers assumed their duties and plans for National Beauty Salon Week observance were formulated at the meeting of Allegany Unit of the Maryland State Hairdressers Association, Monday evening. Mrs. Valetta Kinsley presided at the meeting in Central YMCA.

A membbber of the local club, James Rice, is to present a model at the state meeting and other members will work at the County Infirmary for National Beauty Salon Week. Period hair styles and gowns will feature the program by various units throughout the state, at the governor's luncheon February 11, at the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore. Mr. Rice, assigned Roman styles of the 17th century, has chosen bride's styles for his models.

Following prayer by Alma Jones, Mrs. Eloise Ack installed the officers at a candlelight ceremony. They are Mrs. Virginia Nave, president; Mrs. Alberta Lindner, first vice-president; Mr. Rice, second vice president; Mrs. Dorothy Dyer, recording secretary; Mrs. Ruth Campbell, corresponding secretary; John Taylor, treasurer; Miss Ethel Henry, financial secretary and Mrs. LaVada Davis, historian.

Various chairmen reports were made and committees were appointed. It was announced that the next unit meeting will be held February 5 instead of the 12th, so final arrangements for Beauty Salon Week may be checked. Mrs. Nave and Mr. Rice will represent the unit at the state meeting to be held at the Emerson Hotel, Janlary 28. Mrs. Catherine Welton was reported in the hospital. Mrs. Kinsley gave her version of the artichoke hairstyle. Concluding the evening refreshments were served by Mrs. Alma Jones and Mrs. Davis.

Science At Work

By The Associated Press

The speed of cheetahs and mice, the dark world of the night monkey and strange hallucinations for chickens are subjects for science at work.

The cheetah may well be the swiftest surface transportation without wheels.

Now, with the help of slow-motion movies, scientists have a better idea of how the cheetah and other animals walk, run and jump.

The cheetah, for instance, traveling 60 miles per hour, takes as many as 3½ strides a second—and each stride covers 22 to 26 feet. At moderate speeds mice take up to 12 strides per second—but when they pour on the speed they take fewer, but longer strides. The adult elephant takes only one stride a second.

Dr. Milton Hildenbrand, University of California zoologist from Davis, Calif., found that walking and running habits vary with body weight, shape, speed and agility. The variations are wide and many.

A human runner has one foot on the ground about half of the time. But an animal called the Hopping Spring Hass, an African rodent, can keep its body in the air 85 per cent of the time.

For those insomniacs who like to think of themselves as night people there is a counterpart in the animal world. On Barro Colorado Island in the Panama Canal Zone there is a night monkey.

Called Aotus Trivirgatus, he's rarely seen during the day. He spends the sunlit hours asleep in tree holes, sometimes huddled together with fellow monkeys. But after twilight he joins a troop of night monkeys and feeds on frogs, insects and leaves. He has big golden eyes, uses his hands almost as well as a human, is very intelligent, lean, clean and extremely agile, say scientists of the Smithsonian Institution.

Dr. Martin W. Schein of Pennsylvania State University is using tiny electric shocks to prod the brains of chickens—and find what part of the brain is behind which kind of behavior.

In some experiments, he's apparently produced hallucinations in chickens by the shock technique—at least the birds seem to be reacting to something in the thin air. Shocks to another area produce sleep-like behavior. When they are stopped the chicken gets up and moves around again. Various parts of the brain have been shown to induce fear, attack or alertness, when shocked. Dr. Schein is searching for the eating control.

Red Cross Sponsors Training Course

Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, is conducting a refresher course for home nursing instructors, according to Mrs Sara Lindsay, executive secretary.

Mrs. Raymond Boore, qualified Red Cross instructor-trainer, is in charge of the course which consists of two three-hour sessions, held at South Cumberland Health Center, 230 Arch Street. Miss Mary Margaret Smith is chairman of the chapter's home nursing committee.

The purpose of the course is to reauthorize instructors who have been inactive, for home nursing classes which the chapter has scheduled to begin shortly.

The first class was held Tuesday. A film will be shown and certificates will be awarded at the second session scheduled Tuesday January 23 at the health center.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Found: Some definitions to help settle those friendly domestic discussions during which hubby charges wife with immaturity — and vice versa.

Dr. T. T. Barrett - Lennard notes in his report on "The Mature Person" that he approaches the subject feeling a little insecure.

The psychologist, from the University of New England in Armindale, New South Wales, Australia, does his reporting in "Mental Health," the journal of the National Association for Mental Health.

The first mark of the mature person, as the expert sees it, is that he or she is open to recognizing and acknowledging his or her own feelings.

The second mark of a mature person; he or she is essentially genuine. That is, he or she does not need to deceive himself or herself about underlying feelings or desires because there is no fear of them.

A third aspect cited by Dr. Barrett-Lennard is that the mature person trusts and depends on his or her own capacities to organize and interpret the data of personal experience.

Now what does the mature person think of others and how does he respond to others?

"He genuinely appreciates and values others as he does himself," the psychologist said. "He is comfortable and open with them because he is comfortable and open with himself.

"He is not guarded in a personal sense because he has nothing to hide. He does not distort himself to please others, nor does he use them as scapegoats for self-dissatisfaction."

The mature person, however, isn't a fence-sitter, a pleasing personality who attempts to be all things to all people.

"He is not afraid of either loving or strongly disliking another, of giving to others or receiving from them, of feeling joy, anger or any other emotion that he actually experiences in relation to them," Dr. Barrett-Lennard said.

"He tends to respond to them emphatically: that is, he senses their actual feelings and meanings even when their words and actions only express themselves indirectly.

"Because of his sympathy for others, they, in turn, are generally drawn to him."

An artificial lake in Rome's Cinecitta, the motion-picture capital of Italy, is dyed to fit the script's needs. Green usually indicates a river; blue, the sea. Huge paddle wheels churn still waters into violent waves.

Dr. T. T. Barrett - Lennard notes in his report on "The Mature Person" that he approaches the subject feeling a little insecure.

The psychologist, from the University of New England in Armindale, New South Wales, Australia, does his reporting in "Mental Health," the journal of the National Association for Mental Health.

The first mark of the mature person, as the expert sees it, is that he or she is open to recognizing and acknowledging his or her own feelings.

The second mark of a mature person: he or she is essentially genuine. That is, he or she does not need to deceive himself or herself about underlying feelings or desires because there is no fear of them.

A third aspect cited by Dr. Barrett-Lennard is that the mature person trusts and depends on his or her own capacities to organize and interpret the data of personal experience.

Now what does the mature person think of others and how does he respond to others?

"He genuinely appreciates and values others as he does himself," the psychologist said. "He is comfortable and open with them because he is comfortable and open with himself.

"He is not guarded in a personal sense because he has nothing to hide. He does not distort himself to please others, nor does he use them as scapegoats for self-dissatisfaction."

The mature person, however, isn't a fence-sitter, a pleasing personality who attempts to be all things to all people.

"He is not afraid of either loving or strongly disliking another, of giving to others or receiving from them, of feeling joy, anger or any other emotion that he actually experiences in relation to them," Dr. Barrett-Lennard said.

"He tends to respond to them emphatically: that is, he senses their actual feelings and meanings even when their words and actions only express themselves indirectly.

"Because of his sympathy for others, they, in turn, are generally drawn to him."

Liquor Board Rejects License For Route 40 Place

The application of Ray Mills for a Class D beer, wine and liquor permit for premises located on U. S. Route 40, six miles west of Cumberland, has been denied by the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners.

In an opinion filed yesterday by the board and signed by Milton Gerson, chairman, and Melvin S. Sloan and Mrs. Rose G. Hay, board members, the application was denied on two grounds.

It was stated that testimony at a remonstrance hearing last week did not show that 500 bona fide residents live within a radius of one mile of the premises (known as Stuckey's) as required by the county liquor law.

The opinion stated that Rev. James Perry, pastor of LaVale Methodist Church, was to the effect that he had checked the mileage from the applicants place of business in all directions and after allowing an extra one-tenth of a mile he arrived at only 265 residents in the area.

William Shuck, a constable in Trial Magistrates Court, who made a similar survey for Hugh Kifer, who operates a liquor business opposite the LaVale Plaza Shopping Center, also testified that his count was 251 persons in the area.

Both inspectors for the liquor board, Edward R. Willison and Angus Turnbull, testified that a check they made and allowing an extra two-tenths of a mile beyond the radius of a mile showed 85 residences. By allowing four persons to each home they figured there were 340 persons in the area.

The board stated that the only testimony which is contradictory came from Mrs. Catherine Mills, wife of the applicant, who stated she checked the houses within a mile radius and found there were 177 residences and averaging three and one-half persons in each house she arrived at a figure of 618 persons.

"The board agrees with the majority of the witnesses and concludes that there are less than 500 bona fide residents within a mile of the applicant's place of business," the opinion stated.

The second reason for rejecting the application is the fact that the board "feels that the place for which the license is applied for is not a proper one in reference to the public peace and general welfare of the neighborhood."

Mills made the application after entering into a proposal to purchase the business of William LaNeve, Alberta Will and Elizabeth LaNeve, which is the Vogue Bar at 25 North Liberty Street.

Canada's Northwest Territories cover a third the area of the United States. Yet the region has only 23,000 inhabitants — fewer than the people doing business every day in a large American office building. Lone trading posts in the Territories receive supplies once a year by means of "cat swings," treks made by tractors pulling sleds.

Harris To Hear Trial Motion

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris, who presided in a jury trial in Frederick County Circuit Court last Friday in which a verdict for $14,600 damages was awarded, will hear a motion for a new trial which has been requested by defense attorneys.

The arguments on the motion will be heard Wednesday, January 17, at 2:30 p. m. in Frederick.

Judge Harris scheduled the hearing for that date as he will go to Baltimore later where he will attend the annual Judicial Conference on January 18 and 19.

The conference will include judges from every county in the state as well as Baltimore City.

Others who will attend are Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey of Allegany County Circuit Court, Associate Judge Stuart Hamill Jr., of Garrett County Circuit Court and Associate Judges D. Kenneth McLaukhlin and Irvine H. Rutledge, both of Washington County Circuit Court.

Judge Harris sat in the Frederick court four days last week in the absence of Judge Patrick Schnauffer of that circuit.

Chamber Of Commerce Head Outlines Work During Past Year

The retiring president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce said yesterday in a report on the year's activities that "Our purpose has been to reawaken in our members a real interest in regaining for the Chamber its rightful place as an institution representing businessmen and community taxpayers working to make Cumberland a better place to live in and a better place to earn a living."

The statement was made by C. M. Sanner, the retiring president, who is succeeded by Karl Bachman.

Sanner said public interest meetings on water resources, practical politics, tours of historical and scenic spots for students and travel agents, a reception for foreign exchange students, the visit of the Legislative Council, honoring of new county teachers; and the annual meeting for Chamber members were held.

Special program activated include a study of the economics of combining certain service facilities of the city and county; a Taxpayers League to represent a broader cross-section of people interested in seeing where their tax dollar goes to supply city services; a study of water and sewage problems for contiguous areas; business ethics in merchandising; business education to help the educational system teach the free enterprise system.

A tourist brochure, in color, has been brought to the printing stage, Sanner said, adding it will be called "The Heart of the Potomac Highlands."

Serious consideration has also been given to a physical change in office facilities to a new downtown location to make services more available to the public.

Tribute was paid to activity of the Legislative Committee and special efforts toward implementation of road improvements and construction speedup for the obvious reason that much local development is being delayed until U. S. Route 40 and the Cumberland Thruway are well advanced and the people can perceive their direct effect, Sanner said.

Finally, if there is any one thing the Chamber desires its members and the public to realize, it is that "Even though we have an old physical plant x x x the area has a high potential in growth and development because of its location and natural resources. It is therefore important that we, as businessmen and taxpayers, exert real effort and express our normal interest in community betterment, our political climate and our citizens' attitude if we are to grow and be competitive x x x x x x," Sanner said.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Back from Europe, exotic - looking Los Angeles sculptress Diana Lotery confirmed that she will marry Richard Basehart as soon as he and his estranged wife, Valentina Cortesa, end their legal separation with a divorce.

Miss Lotery said she has been wearing an engagement ring for two years and she doesn't mind how long she has to wait—but they are going to marry.

Vivacious Ruta Lee, Frank Sinatra's discovery in "Sergeants Three," has a very serious mission. She wants to get her grandparents out from behind the Iron Curtain.

She told me that for almost 10 years they were in Siberia, and now they are in what used to be Lithuania. Her mother and father were both born in Lithuania and Ruta speaks the language. She feels if she could just get to the proper authorities they might help her get her grandparents here.

"I tried to send them money," she said, "but that's difficult. An uncle was killed as he was trying to get out of the country, and he was accused of anti-communism."

Guess a psychiatrist could (and has) had a field day with Marlon Brando's personality. Anna Kashfi calls him names and slaps his face in public. On the other hand, Marlon is the guardian angel of that family of the little crippled boy he brought here to have a corrective operation on the child's deformed foot.

Now a second child in the same family, 5-year-old Turito, is suffering from tuberculosis and Brando has taken over the financial responsibility of his cure. Both little boys are the children of the cook who worked for him when he was in Tahiti shooting "Mutiny On The Bounty." If necessary, Marlon will have Turito flown here and placed in a sanitarium in Arizona.

Merle Oberon, who is in Acapulco rehearsing for her new picture, "The Forsaken Garden," tells me that Steve Cochran was visiting his estranged wife, Heddy Jensen in Copenhagen when she caught up with him and persuaded him to give up another picture assignment in Munich to play opposite her in "Forsaken Garden."

Had dinner at La Rue with Christine Kaufman, the very young leading lady in "Taras Bulba" with Toy Curtis and Yul Brynner. She speaks six languages, but finds it very difficult to read English. She said she reads in German and Italian, and then tries the same thing in English.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Gracie Allen, who did too much over the holidays, is back in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital for a brief rest.

The friends of Larry and Peggy Doheny are shocked and saddened at their separation after so many years of marriage. He was at the Villa Nova with Mrs. Jos Vanderbilt, once married to George.

That pale green Rolls Royce Cary Grant has been driving wasn't a Christmas present to himself. It's a car loaned him by the agency while his more conservatively tinted Rolls is being repaired.

Ross Hunter's mother has been very ill in Cleveland and he's flying back to see her. Ross is such a devoted son. His father has just recovered from a serious illness.

That popular bachelor Frank McCarthy is giving a party Jan. 16 for George Stevens, Jr., before George reports to his important new job as head of the Motion Picture Service of the United States Information Agency.

The party gievn by the Jack Lamberts in Palm Springs honored Gov. Albert Rosellini of Washington, and the Seattle World's Fair commissioner Paul Friedlander. It also celebrated the hostess, Marge (Hall) Lambert's appointment as executive director of the Jimmy Van Heusen and John Haskell Travel and Reservation Bureau of Palm Springs.

A twist casualty is writer John Lee Mahin, who is now hobbling around on crutches. He sustained the injury when he tried to do a time-step at his home during a party and wound up in a heap on the floor.

Lawyers File Demurrer In Local Dispute

Attorneys for the White Cross Health and Beauty Aids firm have filed a demurrer in Allegany County Circuit Court in an equity action brought by William A. Cooley, trading as Cooley's Pharmacy.

Cooley brought the legal action in which he asked for a restraining order against the White Cross firm, which operates a business place on Baltimore Street, in connection with an offer to give 25 per cent of the sales receipts of fair trade items to clubs or charity organizations.

William Walsh, attorney for Cooley, stated in his petition that the offer was a clear violation of the Fair Trade Law of Maryland.

In the demurrer the law firm of Carscaden, Gilchrist and Getty state that the allegations are "vague and ambiguous." It was also claimed that the "essence of fair trade is adequate enforcement by the manufacturer or producer."

No hearing on the demurrer has been set but court attaches said that the attorneys in the case will arrange a date in the near future for the demurrer action before Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey.

Judge Cobey had issued a show cause order December 20 giving the White Cross firm 10 days to answer. An extension of this time was given and the expiration date was yesterday.

Breakneck 4-H Club Elects 1962 Officers

Project book covers, shirts and calendars were distributed, the club program for 1962 was planned and orders were taken for seedling pines. Larry Robinette led the 4-H pledge and Ernest Messick presided at the business meeting at which time roll call was answered by members giving a species of the pine tree.

Wildlife will be the subject of the February 2 meeting at the home of Royce Simpson, Baltimore Pike.

In almost every no trump contract declarer is faced with the problem of which suit to attack in the hope of developing a sufficient number of tricks to fulfill his contract.

In today's hand declarer had the opportunity to try one suit, and in case of failure still retain a further chance by resort to another suit. It was important, however, to adopt the proper sequence.

West elected to lead the four of spades. East followed with the king and South saw no point in holding up. He was faced with the problem of whether to attack clubs or diamonds. Since the diamonds had more body, he entered the dummy with the ace of diamonds and finessed the jack. This lost, and three spade tricks were cashed. When the diamonds failed to break, declarer was unable to develop his ninth trick. "Tough luck, partner," he was heard to say, "I had two chances, either the diamond finesse or the diamond break. Both went wrong." This complaint against fate was not fully justified. There was another chance open to him which he had not tried.

There is an excellent chance that the clubs will break 3-2 in which case declarer will have his nine tricks. A club should, therefore, be conceded at once, and the enemy will cash three spade tricks. Now if the clubs fail to break, the declarer may fall back on the diamond suit as an additional chance.

The objection may be raised that the opening lead of the four of spades may be a false one and that West may have a five card suit. The way to check up on this is to pass the first trick and notice which spade East returns. If it is a low one, you are entitled to assume that East is returning from four and that the opening lead was, therefore, honest.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Back from Europe, exotic - looking Los Angeles sculptress Diana Lotery confirmed that she will marry Richard Basehart as soon as he and his estranged wife, Valentina Cortesa, end their legal separation with a divorce.

Miss Lotery said she has been wearing an engagement ring for two years and she doesn't mind how long she has to wait—but they are going to marry.

Vivacious Ruta Lee, Frank Sinatra's discovery in "Sergeants Three," has a very serious mission. She wants to get her grandparents out from behind the Iron Curtain.

She told me that for almost 10 years they were in Siberia, and now they are in what used to be Lithuania. Her mother and father were both born in Lithuania and Ruta speaks the language. She feels if she could just get to the proper authorities they might help her get her grandparents here.

"I tried to send them money," she said, "but that's difficult. An uncle was killed as he was trying to get out of the country, and he was accused of anti-communism."

Guess a psychiatrist could (and has) had a field day with Marlon Brando's personality. Anna Kashfi calls him names and slaps his face in public. On the other hand, Marlon is the guardian angel of that family of the little crippled boy he brought here to have a corrective operation on the child's deformed foot.

Now a second child in the same family, 5-year-old Turito, is suffering from tuberculosis and Brando has taken over the financial responsibility of his cure. Both little boys are the children of the cook who worked for him when he was in Tahiti shooting "Mutiny On The Bounty." If necessary, Marlon will have Turito flown here and placed in a sanitarium in Arizona.

Merle Oberon, who is in Acapulco rehearsing for her new picture, "The Forsaken Garden," tells me that Steve Cochran was visiting his estranged wife, Heddy Jensen in Copenhagen when she caught up with him and persuaded him to give up another picture assignment in Munich to play opposite her in "Forsaken Garden."

Had dinner at La Rue with Christine Kaufman, the very young leading lady in "Taras Bulba" with Toy Curtis and Yul Brynner. She speaks six languages, but finds it very difficult to read English. She said she reads in German and Italian, and then tries the same thing in English.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Gracie Allen, who did too much over the holidays, is back in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital for a brief rest.

The friends of Larry and Peggy Doheny are shocked and saddened at their separation after so many years of marriage. He was at the Villa Nova with Mrs. Jos Vanderbilt, once married to George.

That pale green Rolls Royce Cary Grant has been driving wasn't a Christmas present to himself. It's a car loaned him by the agency while his more conservatively tinted Rolls is being repaired.

Ross Hunter's mother has been very ill in Cleveland and he's flying back to see her. Ross is such a devoted son. His father has just recovered from a serious illness.

That popular bachelor Frank McCarthy is giving a party Jan. 16 for George Stevens, Jr., before George reports to his important new job as head of the Motion Picture Service of the United States Information Agency.

The party gievn by the Jack Lamberts in Palm Springs honored Gov. Albert Rosellini of Washington, and the Seattle World's Fair commissioner Paul Friedlander. It also celebrated the hostess, Marge (Hall) Lambert's appointment as executive director of the Jimmy Van Heusen and John Haskell Travel and Reservation Bureau of Palm Springs.

A twist casualty is writer John Lee Mahin, who is now hobbling around on crutches. He sustained the injury when he tried to do a time-step at his home during a party and wound up in a heap on the floor.

Lawyers File Demurrer In Local Dispute

Attorneys for the White Cross Health and Beauty Aids firm have filed a demurrer in Allegany County Circuit Court in an equity action brought by William A. Cooley, trading as Cooley's Pharmacy.

Cooley brought the legal action in which he asked for a restraining order against th White Cross firm, which operates a business place on Baltimore Street, in connection with an offer to give 25 per cent of the sales receipts of fair trade items to clubs or charity organizations.

William Walsh, attorney for Cooley, stated in his petition that the offer was a clear violation of the Fair Trade Law of Maryland.

In the demurrer the law firm of Carscaden, Gilchrist and Getty state that the allegations are "vague and ambiguous." It was also claimed that the "essence of fair trade is adequate enforcement by the manufacturer or producer."

No hearing on the demurrer has been set but court attaches said that the attorneys in the case will arrange a date in the near future for the demurrer action before Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey.

Judge Cobey had issued a show cause order December 20 giving the White Cross firm 10 days to answer. An extension of this time was given and the expiration date was yesterday.

Breakneck 4-H Club Elects 1962 Officers

Project book covers, shirts and calendars were distributed, the club program for 1962 was planned and orders were taken for seedling pines. Larry Robinette led the 4-H pledge and Ernest Messick presided at the business meeting at which time roll call was answered by members giving a species of the pine tree.

Wildlife will be the subject of the February 2 meeting at the home of Royce Simpson, Baltimore Pike.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead: Four of ♠

In almost every no trump contract declarer is faced with the problem of which suit to attack in the hope of developing a sufficient number of tricks to fulfill his contract.

In today's hand declarer had the opportunity to try one suit, and in case of failure still retain a further chance by resort to another suit. It was important, however, to adopt the proper sequence.

West elected to lead the four of spades. East followed with the king and South saw no point in holding up. He was faced with the problem of whether to attack clubs or diamonds. Since the diamonds had more body, he entered the dummy with the ace of diamonds and finessed the jack. This lost, and three spade tricks were cashed. When the diamonds failed to break, declarer was unable to develop his ninth trick. "Tough luck, partner," he was heard to say, "I had two chances, either the diamond finesse or the diamond break. Both went wrong." This complaint against fate was not fully justified. There was another chance open to him which he had not tried.

There is an excellent chance that the clubs will break 3-2 in which case declarer will have his nine tricks. A club should, therefore, be conceded at once, and the enemy will cash three spade tricks. Now if the clubs fail to break, the declarer may fall back on the diamond suit as an additional chance.

The objection may be raised that the opening lead of the four of spades may be a false one and that West may have a five card suit. The way to check up on this is to pass the first trick and notice which spade East returns. If it is a low one, you are entitled to assume that East is returning from four and that the opening lead was, therefore, honest.

Legislature Dodges Test On Pipeline

Resolution Sent To Judiciary

By HERB LITTLE
By The Associated Press

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The West Virginia Legislature dodged an early floor test on the coal pipeline Thursday when the House sidetracked into committee a resolution to put off a decision on the issue until next year.

Meanwhile, it was announced that a public hearing on the administration's coal pipeline bills will be held in the House chamber the night of Jan. 18.

The move to get the between-sessions study resolution off the floor for the time being was more or less an agreed matter between those who want the issue studied until next year and those who want action at this session.

The motion to send the resolution to the Judiciary Committeee came from its sponsors. But if they hadn't made the motion, the other side would have.

The bills are aimed at clearing the way for a construction of a pipeline to carry a coal-water mixture from West Virginia mines to coal markets on the East Coast.

The pipeline bills would do two main things. They would give coal pipeline concerns the right to acquire right of way by condemnation proceedings in court, a right which Gov. W. W. Barron said has "been enjoyed for many years by all forms of competitive energy." The bills also would put coal pipelines under Public Service Commission regulation.

FSTC Biology Exhibit Opens Tomorrow

FROSTBURG — A science exhibit will be sponsored by students of the Animal Biology (Biol. 101) classes of Frostburg State Teachers College, Saturday, in Maurice's Department Store, from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m.

Projects made by students in classes of Dr. Donald Emerson and Dr. Jack Snyder, science instructors at the college, will be displayed. The members of the classes voted on the selection of projects for the exhibits. Co-chairmen of arrangements are Charles Gosnell and Dennis Burns, science students.

Dr. Emerson's group will have a window display of some of the projects, which will include, as Emerson says, "some surprises that will be particularly interesting to the public."

Members of the class will be on hand during the day to explain the projects and to operate the animated ones for the visitors. Letters have been sent to elementry, junior, and senior high schools of the area announcing the exhibit and inviting students to view the displays. An area of 135 square feet has been reserved and some of the displays will be set up on second and third tiers.

Dr. Snyder's exhibit will include a model of a crayfish, made by Marycarolyn Green of Baltimore; a skeleton of a brook trout compared with the skeleton of a guinea pig, by Dennis Burns of Frostburg; an insect collection prepared by Mildred Hayes, of Dickerson; wax models of paramecium, amoeba and euglema by Carol Niner, Cumberland; skeleton of a chicken by Richard Plummer, Frostburg; model of paramecium by Joanne Holtzapple, Hagerstown; model of amoeba showing binnary fission by Norma Jenkins, Midland; a shell collection by Tantsie Troester, Silver Spring; model of the nervous systems, comparing the frog, the hydra and the earthworm by Benny Wolford, Windber, Pa.; mount of a pigeon by Carole High, Nikep, and an insect family tree by Linda Murray, Salisbury, Pa.

The projects for Dr. Emerson's part of the display will be chosen today and arranged by members of his classes. Because of a field trip scheduled for Thursday, the selection of the projects for display was delayed until today.

Many of these projects and others will be entered in the Science Fair to be held on campus during February.

Higher Pay Start

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Service Commission Thursday authorized higher starting pay for engineers and scientists to help federal agencies end a shortage in these occupations.

The commission approved raising entrance pay $660 to $780 a year effective later this month for engineers and scientists in grades 9, 10 and 11. This would bring their pay to $7,095 for grade 9, $7,655 for grade 10 and $8,340 for grade 11.

Senate Eulogizes John D. Hoblitzell Of West Virginia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate received formal notice Thursday of the death of former Sen. John D. Hoblitzell of West Virginia, who was eulogized by Sens. Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd and two other members.

Randolph, the first speaker, read into the record statements of Gov. W. W. Barron, former Gov. Cecil H. Underwood and other state leaders on the death of Hoblitzell last Saturday.

He referred to Hoblitzell, whom he defeated in 1958 for the unexpired term of the late M. M. Neely, as "my distinguished predecessor and cherished personal friend.

After reviewing Hoblitzell's long career in public service, he termed Hoblitzell a man of "courage and conviction and, withal, compassion."

Randolph then yielded to Byrd for a tribute to Hoblitzell which was followed by brief eulogies by Republicans Frank Carlson of Kansas and Francis Case of South Dakota.

Hoblitzell, former Republican state chairman and a U. S. senator by appointment during most of 1958, died of a heart attack at his home in Clarksburg last Saturday at the age of 49.

89 Donate Blood At Moorefield

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Eighty-nine persons presented themselves at the Moose Home in Moorefield to donate blood to the Red Cross Mobile Unit. Only three were rejected so the operation garnered 86 bottles of blood. Since 57 of the donors were what is styled "walk-ins" (people who have not promised in advance to give blood), it all 71 of those who did promise to donate had come, rather than only 29 of them, the quota would have come much nearer being made.

After yesterday's donations, Mrs. Viola Funk received her two-gallon pin. One-gallon pins were presented to Mrs. Mary Halterman, Wallace Sherman, Clyde Grimes, Carlton Newhouse, James Ed Frye, Harry "Beanie" Reel and Emmett Crites.

Moorefield furnished most of the donors, having 67 in attendance. Six came from Wardensville; four from Mathias; Rockoak, Rio and Cumberland, Md., each furnished two; and Kessel, Durgon, Kirby, Old Fields, Lost River and Rig each had one representative.

The ladies carried the burden this time, 51 to 38. Eighty-five persons had given previously and only 4 were new.

Fifteen volunteers gave 76½ hours of service. At the reception desk were Mrs. W. J. Teets and Mrs. R. E. Fisher; registration desk, Mrs. A. C. McNeill, Mrs. John Burch, Mrs. Irvin Bowman; temperature table, Mrs. J. W. Fisher; juice and bottle tables, Mrs. Ewing Pickard, Mrs. Frances Hormback, Mrs. Ashby Scea, Mrs. John Harman; canteen, Mrs. O. H. Bean and Mrs. James Tenney, Mrs. Guy Bean and Mrs. Lem Pratt; registered nurses, Mrs. Virginia Mathias, Mrs. R. E. Williams, Mrs. William Judy.

Amendment Proposed To Legalize Present Apportionment Of W. Va. House

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—House Judiciary Chairman H. Laban White, D-Harrison, introduced Thursday a proposed constitutional amendment that would legalize the present apportionment of the House of Delegates.

White said the proposed amendment would give each county at least one delegate, eliminating the requirement that smaller counties be incorporated into so - called "delegate districts."

The constitutionality of the present apportionment was questioned during the last session of the Legislature and State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson said the present system was not legal.

Reapportioning into delegate districts means that some sparsely - populated, adjoining counties would be included in one district represented by one or more delegates. That is essentially the proposal made in two bills introduced Wednesday, one by House Majority Leader W. T. Brotherton Jr. and the other by Del. Jack R. Nuzum, D-Randolph.

Brotherton's bill would set up seven delegate districts, each with two or three counties represented by a single delegate. The bill would set up districts including Pleasants and Tyler, Ritchie and Doddridge, Calhoun, Gilmer and Wirt, Hampshire and Morgan, Hardy and Grant, Barbour and Tucker and Pendleton and Pocahontas.

All of those counties now have one delegate each.

Under the bill, Berkeley, Boone, Brooke and Hancock Counties, now with one delegate each, would get two apiece, and Fayette and Logan, each with four, would have three.

Mercer, Ohio and Wood Counties would go from three to four delegates each while McDowell would lose one of its five delegates.

The bill would give Kanawha County 14 delegates, three more than its present 11.

The representation of all the other counties would remain the same.

Nuzum's bill, which also would realign the upper chamber to give each county one senator, calls for four delegate districts. Two of the districts would have three delegates each and two would have two delegates.

The two three - delegate districts would include Ritchie, Wirt, Calhoun, Gilmer, Doddridge, Tyler and Pleasants in one and Morgan, Berkeley and Hampshite in the other.

Grant, Tucker, Hardy and Pendleton Counties and Randolph and Pocahontas Counties would have two each.

All of those counties included in the four districts now have one delegate each.

Brooke and Hancock Counties, now with one delegate each, would go two apiece, Fayette and Logan would drop from four to three each; Mercer, Ohio and Wood Counties would go from three to four apiece; Cabell's delegation would be increased from five to six and Kanawha's from 11 to 14.

There would be no change in the representation of the other counties under Nuzum's bill.

Legislature Dodges Test On Pipeline

Resolution Sent To Judiciary

By HERB LITTLE
By The Associated Press

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The West Virginia Legislature dodged an early floor test on the coal pipeline Thursday when the House sidetracked into committee a resolution to put off a decision on the issue until next year.

Meanwhile, it was announced that a public hearing on the administration's coal pipeline bills will be held in the House chamber the night of Jan. 18.

The move to get the between-sessions study resolution off the floor for the time being was more or less an agreed matter between those who want the issue studied until next year and those who want action at this session.

The motion to send the resolution to the Judiciary Committeee came from its sponsors. But if they hadn't made the motion, the other side would have.

The bills are aimed at clearing the way for a construction of a pipeline to carry a coal-water mixture from West Virginia mines to coal markets on the East Coast.

The pipeline bills would do two main things. They would give coal pipeline concerns the right to acquire right of way by condemnation proceedings in court, a right which Gov. W. W. Barron said has "been enjoyed for many years by all forms of competitive energy." The bills also would put coal pipelines under Public Service Commission regulation.

FSTC Biology Exhibit Opens Tomorrow

FROSTBURG — A science exhibit will be sponsored by students of the Animal Biology (Biol. 101) classes of Frostburg State Teachers College, Saturday, in Maurice's Department Store, from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m.

Projects made by students in classes of Dr. Donald Emerson and Dr. Jack Snyder, science instructors at the college, will be displayed. The members of the classes voted on the selection of projects for the exhibits. Co-chairmen of arrangements are Charles Gosnell and Dennis Burns, science students.

Dr. Emerson's group will have a window display of some of the projects, which will include, as Emerson says, "some surprises that will be particularly interesting to the public."

Members of the class will be on hand during the day to explain the projects and to operate the animated ones for the visitors. Letters have been sent to elementry, junior, and senior high schools of the area announcing the exhibit and inviting students to view the displays. An area of 135 square feet has been reserved and some of the displays will be set up on second and third tiers.

Dr. Snyder's exhibit will include a model of a crayfish, made by Marycarolyn Green of Baltimore; a skeleton of a brook trout compared with the skeleton of a guinea pig, by Dennis Burns of Frostburg; an insect collection prepared by Mildred Hayes, of Dickerson; wax models of paramecium, amoeba and euglema by Carol Niner, Cumberland; skeleton of a chicken by Richard Plummer, Frostburg; model of paramecium by Joanne Holtzapple, Hagerstown; model of amoeba showing binnary fission by Norma Jenkins, Midland; a shell collection by Tantsie Troester, Silver Spring; model of the nervous systems, comparing the frog, the hydra and the earthworm by Benny Wolford, Windber, Pa.; mount of a pigeon by Carole High, Nikep, and an insect family tree by Linda Murray, Salisbury, Pa.

The projects for Dr. Emerson's part of the display will be chosen today and arranged by members of his classes. Because of a field trip scheduled for Thursday, the selection of the projects for display was delayed until today.

Many of these projects and others will be entered in the Science Fair to be held on campus during February.

Higher Pay Start

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Service Commission Thursday authorized higher starting pay for engineers and scientists to help federal agencies end a shortage in these occupations.

The commission approved raising entrance pay $660 to $780 a year effective later this month for engineers and scientists in grades 9, 10 and 11. This would bring their pay to $7,095 for grade 9, $7,655 for grade 10 and $8,340 for grade 11.

Senate Eulogizes John D. Hoblitzell Of West Virginia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate received formal notice Thursday of the death of former Sen. John D. Hoblitzell of West Virginia, who was eulogized by Sens. Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd and two other members.

Randolph, the first speaker, read into the record statements of Gov. W. W. Barron, former Gov. Cecil H. Underwood and other state leaders on the death of Hoblitzell last Saturday.

He referred to Hoblitzell, whom he defeated in 1958 for the unexpired term of the late M. M. Neely, as "my distinguished predecessor and cherished personal friend.

After reviewing Hoblitzell's long career in public service, he termed Hoblitzell a man of "courage and conviction and, withal, compassion."

Randolph then yielded to Byrd for a tribute to Hoblitzell which was followed by brief eulogies by Republicans Frank Carlson of Kansas and Francis Case of South Dakota.

Hoblitzell, former Republican state chairman and a U. S. senator by appointment during most of 1958, died of a heart attack at his home in Clarksburg last Saturday at the age of 49.

89 Donate Blood At Moorefield

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Eighty-nine persons presented themselves at the Moose Home in Moorefield to donate blood to the Red Cross Mobile Unit. Only three were rejected so the operation garnered 86 bottles of blood. Since 57 of the donors were what is styled "walk-ins" (people who have not promised in advance to give blood), it all 71 of those who did promise to donate had come, rather than only 29 of them, the quota would have come much nearer being made.

After yesterday's donations, Mrs. Viola Funk received her two-gallon pin. One-gallon pins were presented to Mrs. Mary Halterman, Wallace Sherman, Clyde Grimes, Carlton Newhouse, James Ed Frye, Harry "Beanie" Reel and Emmett Crites.

Moorefield furnished most of the donors, having 67 in attendance. Six came from Wardensville; four from Mathias; Rockoak, Rio and Cumberland, Md., each furnished two; and Kessel, Durgon, Kirby, Old Fields, Lost River and Rig each had one representative.

The ladies carried the burden this time, 51 to 38. Eighty-five persons had given previously and only 4 were new.

Fifteen volunteers gave 76½ hours of service. At the reception desk were Mrs. W. J. Teets and Mrs. R. E. Fisher; registration desk, Mrs. A. C. McNeill, Mrs. John Burch, Mrs. Irvin Bowman; temperature table, Mrs. J. W. Fisher; juice and bottle tables, Mrs. Ewing Pickard, Mrs. Frances Hormback, Mrs. Ashby Scea, Mrs. John Harman; canteen, Mrs. O. H. Bean and Mrs. James Tenney, Mrs. Guy Bean and Mrs. Lem Pratt; registered nurses, Mrs. Virginia Mathias, Mrs. R. E. Williams, Mrs. William Judy.

Mt. Savage OES Meets Tuesday

MT. SAVAGE — Rebecca Arnold Chapter No. 57 Order of the Eastern Star will hold its regular meeting Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Junior Order hall. Worthy matron, Mrs. Helen Knepp and worthy patron, Joseph Jenkins, will preside.

There will be conferring of the degrees and also obligation night. The refreshment committee will be Mrs. Mary Best, Mrs. Cora Pollock and Mrs. LaVerne Uhl.

Amendment Proposed To Legalize Present Apportionment Of W. Va. House

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—House Judiciary Chairman H. Laban White, D-Harrison, introduced Thursday a proposed constitutional amendment that would legalize the present apportionment of the House of Delegates.

White said the proposed amendment would give each county at least one delegate, eliminating the requirement that smaller counties be incorporated into so - called "delegate districts."

The constitutionality of the present apportionment was questioned during the last session of the Legislature and State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson said the present system was not legal.

Reapportioning into delegate districts means that some sparsely - populated, adjoining counties would be included in one district represented by one or more delegates. That is essentially the proposal made in two bills introduced Wednesday, one by House Majority Leader W. T. Brotherton Jr. and the other by Del. Jack R. Nuzum, D-Randolph.

Brotherton's bill would set up seven delegate districts, each with two or three counties represented by a single delegate. The bill would set up districts including Pleasants and Tyler, Ritchie and Doddridge, Calhoun, Gilmer and Wirt, Hampshire and Morgan, Hardy and Grant, Barbour and Tucker and Pendleton and Pocahontas.

All of those counties now have one delegate each.

Under the bill, Berkeley, Boone, Brooke and Hancock Counties, now with one delegate each, would get two apiece, and Fayette and Logan, each with four, would have three.

Mercer, Ohio and Wood Counties would go from three to four delegates each while McDowell would lose one of its five delegates.

The bill would give Kanawha County 14 delegates, three more than its present 11.

The representation of all the other counties would remain the same.

Nuzum's bill, which also would realign the upper chamber to give each county one senator, calls for four delegate districts. Two of the districts would have three delegates each and two would have two delegates.

The two three - delegate districts would include Ritchie, Wirt, Calhoun, Gilmer, Doddridge, Tyler and Pleasants in one and Morgan, Berkeley and Hampshite in the other.

Grant, Tucker, Hardy and Pendleton Counties and Randolph and Pocahontas Counties would have two each.

All of those counties included in the four districts now have one delegate each.

Brooke and Hancock Counties, now with one delegate each, would go two apiece, Fayette and Logan would drop from four to three each; Mercer, Ohio and Wood Counties would go from three to four apiece; Cabell's delegation would be increased from five to six and Kanawha's from 11 to 14.

There would be no change in the representation of the other counties under Nuzum's bill.

Top Korean Philosopher To Visit PSC

Byung-uk Ahn To Conduct Forum

KEYSER — Byunk-uk Ahn, Korean philosopher, teacher, and writer, will be a guest on the Potomac State College campus today and Saturday, appearing under the auspices of the Intercollegiate Regional Council of which Potomac State is a member.

The general public is invited to attend an open meeting at 8 p. m. today, in the Science Hall Assembly Room, when Mr. Ahn will speak and lead a forum-type discussion. Currently a Whitney Foundation scholar at the University of Pittsburgh, his specialty is Oriental religions, which may be of special interest to area clergymen.

The 41-year-old speaker, a native of Korea, received an AB degree in philosophy at Waseda University, Japan, in 1943. He has served as a teacher of Korean and English at high schools in his native land and as an instructor at Yonsei University.

He is at present on leave as Professor of Philosophy at Union Christian College, Seoul; lecturer at the College of Arts and Sciences, Seoul National University; and editor-in-chief of Sasangge Magazine, Korea's leading intellectual magazine which is of the Atlantic or Harpers magazine level.

Book publications include several original books, many translations of American and English authors, and numerous articles in leading Korean newspapers and magazines.

President E. E. Church will introduce the speaker and preside during the evening program.

Mr. Ahn will be entertained at an informal tea with students after his arrival on campus this afternoon and will dine at Davis Hall with faculty members of the social sciences department and other staff members.

Saturday morning he will meet students of the history classes in seminars.

The Intercollegiate Regional Council is associated with the Council of Education and Cultural Exchange at the University of Pittsburgh. Dr. Louise M. Pease is Potomac State's faculty liaison with the group.

Mineral Co. GOP Club Plans Dinner On Lincoln Day

KEYSER—The Mineral County Republican Women's Club met Monday at Rosemont Restaurant with the vice-president, Mrs. W. A. Jeffries presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. Robert McCoy Sr.

Members discussed plans for the Lincoln Day dinner to be held February 12 at Rosemont Restaurant.

The program consisted of two films shown by Edgell Grayson. One, "Man of Action" showed how even the best neighborhood, through neglect, can become a slum eventually and how citizens working together can see that their town gets rid of its slums and never has them again.

The other, "Let's Keep America Beautiful," showed many of the beautiful scenic areas and how they have been ruined by thoughtless people who throw litter everywhere. It also stressed the fact that it isn't always the other fellow who does the littering.

Both films were made available to the club through services provided by the film library at West Virginia University in Morgantown.

Bloomington To Buy New Fire Truck

BLOOMINGTON — The Bloomington Volunteer Fire Company will purchase a new truck as soon as financial arrangements are completed.

The truck is a combination pumper with high pressure fog to be built on a Chevrolet chassis by the Central Fire Equipment Company at St. Louis. It will be equipped to carry 500 gallons of water, a one-stage centrifugal pump and a four-stage centrifugal pump for producing fog.

Seventy-five working days will be required to assemble the equipment and delivery is expected around April or May.

The company plans to trade in its Diamond T pumper, but keep its Dodge tank truck which carries 700 gallons of water.

Garrett County annually levies five cents on each $100 of assessed property in the county, which amount is divided among the fire companies.

The local company plans to use its share of the fund for payments on the truck. The balance will be raised by the company through donations and money-raising events.

FROSTBURG—Special projects in science, prepared by students taking "The Elementary Child and His Curriculum," (Educ. 304) at Frostburg State Teachers College, are on display in Allegany Hall.

The visual aids prepared by the class of 30 students are for various grade levels and demonstrate a wide variety of scientific principles.

"The students are endeavoring to make science meaningful to the pupils through the use of visual aids that not only enrich the context material, but effectively demonstrate the scientific principles involved," stated Homer R. Pankey, instructor of the ten-hour education course.

The display includes an electroscope used in the study of atomic energy; a spinthariscope which demonstrates disintegration of radium atoms; nuclear reactors showing various control rods; a simulated volcano that erupts steam and hot lava; a weather clock, a model of a bean seed, a telegraph key, a plant cell, a plant box showing how green plants seek the sunlight; a model of a flower with the major parts identified; a periscope demonstrating how mirrors are used to reflect images; a model oxygen atom for studying a unit on atomic energy; a water wheel, a steam turbine, a chart of 50 different kinds of seeds, a ventilating box, a sun dial, a science chart, which shows how air pressure causes expansion and contraction of the lungs, and a model of the heart with each part numbered for matching and testing the student's knowledge of the heart.

A constellation box to demonstrate all the constellations of the heavens; a magnet box for studying electricity; a model of a plant for a flannelgraph; an electromagnet for the study of electricity and magnetism; a fuse of tin foil to demonstrate why fuses are necessary in the home; a weather station, including a weather vane, an anemometer, hygrometer, and wind vane; a model of a honey bee with parts identified; a News wind direction weather vane, and an electronic question and answer board are other projects included in the display.

The classroom study includes an explanation of the history of science in the elementary school and the necessity of broadening the youngster's knowledge of the subject. Various ways of teaching science in elementary school were discussed, including the unit, project, resource, research, laboratory and experimental methods. The ways of studying science were then presented, such as through reading, observation, field trips, experiment, and the mass media.

The importance of developing a science laboratory, the various trends in science today, the relation of the elementary and secondary science programs, and ways to evaluate a science program were studied. The group observed classes in science in the Pullen School and discussed curriculum content at each grade level.

Cattle Disease Control Set Up In W. Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Department of Agriculture and the West Virginia Livestock Auction Market Association took initial steps Monday to set up a more stringent testing program to improve the control of livestock diseases.

Gus R. Douglas, assistant agriculture commissioner, said the two groups agreed to set up a six-member committee to work out new control procedures. The decision came during Monday's annual statutory meeting of the department with the association.

Douglas said the main point in the new procedures would call for brucellosis testing of all female cattle over 500 pounds and all bulls which go through the auction markets. At the present time, animals are tested only when they are returned to the farm.

The new committee, composed of three department officials and three representatives of the association, will work out the new testing procedures during a meeting here within 30 days, Douglas said.

The association also voted to have the books of all auction markets audited to determine what percentage of sales would be subject to consumer sales taxes, Douglas said. All auction markets are subject to the gross sales tax.

During the meeting, E. E. Peters Jr., Terra Alta, was elected new association president, succeeding John Dawkins, Ronceverte. Also elected were vice president John Coffman, Moorefield; secretary-treasurer Roy McCulty, Spencer, and Charles Conway, Elkins, a director.

Byung-uk Ahn To Conduct Forum

KEYSER — Byunk-uk Ahn, Korean philosopher, teacher, and writer, will be a guest on the Potomac State College campus today and Saturday, appearing under the auspices of the Intercollegiate Regional Council of which Potomac State is a member.

The general public is invited to attend an open meeting at 8 p. m. today, in the Science Hall Assembly Room, when Mr. Ahn will speak and lead a forum-type discussion. Currently a Whitney Foundation scholar at the University of Pittsburgh, his specialty is Oriental religions, which may be of special interest to area clergymen.

The 41-year-old speaker, a native of Korea, received an AB degree in philosophy at Waseda University, Japan, in 1943. He has served as a teacher of Korean and English at high schools in his native land and as an instructor at Yonsei University.

Book publications include several original books, many translations of American and English authors, and numerous articles in leading Korean newspapers and magazines.

President E. E. Church will introduce the speaker and preside during the evening program.

Mr. Ahn will be entertained at an informal tea with students after his arrival on campus this afternoon and will dine at Davis Hall with faculty members of the social sciences department and other staff members.

Saturday morning he will meet students of the history classes in seminars.

The Intercollegiate Regional Council is associated with the Council of Education and Cultural Exchange at the University of Pittsburgh. Dr. Louise M. Pease is Potomac State's faculty liaison with the group.

Mineral Co. GOP Club Plans Dinner On Lincoln Day

KEYSER—The Mineral County Republican Women's Club met Monday at Rosemont Restaurant with the vice-president, Mrs. W. A. Jeffries presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. Robert McCoy Sr.

Members discussed plans for the Lincoln Day dinner to be held February 12 at Rosemont Restaurant.

The program consisted of two films shown by Edgell Grayson. One, "Man of Action" showed how even the best neighborhood, through neglect, can become a slum eventually and how citizens working together can see that their town gets rid of its slums and never has them again.

The other, "Let's Keep America Beautiful," showed many of the beautiful scenic areas and how they have been ruined by thoughtless people who throw litter everywhere. It also stressed the fact that it isn't always the other fellow who does the littering.

Both films were made available to the club through services provided by the film library at West Virginia University in Morgantown.

Bloomington To Buy New Fire Truck

BLOOMINGTON — The Bloomington Volunteer Fire Company will purchase a new truck as soon as financial arrangements are completed.

The truck is a combination pumper with high pressure fog to be built on a Chevrolet chassis by the Central Fire Equipment Company at St. Louis. It will be equipped to carry 500 gallons of water, a one-stage centrifugal pump and a four-stage centrifugal pump for producing fog.

Seventy-five working days will be required to assemble the equipment and delivery is expected around April or May.

The company plans to trade in its Diamond T pumper, but keep its Dodge tank truck which carries 700 gallons of water.

Garrett County annually levies five cents on each $100 of assessed property in the county, which amount is divided among the fire companies.

The local company plans to use its share of the fund for payments on the truck. The balance will be raised by the company through donations and money-raising events.

The visual aids prepared by the class of 30 students are for various grade levels and demonstrate a wide variety of scientific principles.

"The students are endeavoring to make science meaningful to the pupils through the use of visual aids that not only enrich the context material, but effectively demonstrate the scientific principles involved," stated Homer R. Pankey, instructor of the ten-hour education course.

The display includes an electroscope used in the study of atomic energy; a spinthariscope which demonstrates disintegration of radium atoms; nuclear reactors showing various control rods; a simulated volcano that erupts steam and hot lava; a weather clock, a model of a bean seed, a telegraph key, a plant cell, a plant box showing how green plants seek the sunlight; a model of a flower with the major parts identified; a periscope demonstrating how mirrors are used to reflect images; a model oxygen atom for studying a unit on atomic energy; a water wheel, a steam turbine, a chart of 50 different kinds of seeds, a ventilating box, a sun dial, a science chart, which shows how air pressure causes expansion and contraction of the lungs, and a model of the heart with each part numbered for matching and testing the student's knowledge of the heart.

A constellation box to demonstrate all the constellations of the heavens; a magnet box for studying electricity; a model of a plant for a flannelgraph; an electromagnet for the study of electricity and magnetism; a fuse of tin foil to demonstrate why fuses are necessary in the home; a weather station, including a weather vane, an anemometer, hygrometer, and wind vane; a model of a honey bee with parts identified; a News wind direction weather vane, and an electronic question and answer board are other projects included in the display.

The classroom study includes an explanation of the history of science in the elementary school and the necessity of broadening the youngster's knowledge of the subject. Various ways of teaching science in elementary school were discussed, including the unit, project, resource, research, laboratory and experimental methods. The ways of studying science were then presented, such as through reading, observation, field trips, experiment, and the mass media.

The importance of developing a science laboratory, the various trends in science today, the relation of the elementary and secondary science programs, and ways to evaluate a science program were studied. Cattle Disease Control Set Up In W. Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Department of Agriculture and the West Virginia Livestock Auction Market Association took initial steps Monday to set up a more stringent testing program to improve the control of livestock diseases.

Gus R. Douglas, assistant agriculture commissioner, said the two groups agreed to set up a six-member committee to work out new control procedures. The decision came during Monday's annual statutory meeting of the department with the association.

Douglas said the main point in the new procedures would call for brucellosis testing of all female cattle over 500 pounds and all bulls which go through the auction markets. At the present time, animals are tested only when they are returned to the farm.

The new committee, composed of three department officials and three representatives of the association, will work out the new testing procedures during a meeting here within 30 days, Douglas said.

The association also voted to have the books of all auction markets audited to determine what percentage of sales would be subject to consumer sales taxes, Douglas said. All auction markets are subject to the gross sales tax.

During the meeting, E. E. Peters Jr., Terra Alta, was elected new association president, succeeding John Dawkins, Ronceverte. Also elected were vice president John Coffman, Moorefield; secretary - treasurer Roy McCulty, Spencer, and Charles Conway, Elkins, a director.

Urban Renewal Plan Outlined

PIEDMONT — A briefing on Community Planning and Urban Renewal was given to the mayors and town councils of Westernport and Piedmont Tuesday evening by John Larson, Hagerstown, community development and planning consultant of the Potomac Edison Company.

In the program there must be a survey made of the community, listing the towns facilities and things that would improve the towns, Larson said.

This would be followed by the Urban Renewal program. The government would provide 75 per cent of both programs in a grant.

Larson pointed out it would be feasible if a combined survey of the three towns were made, if they are interested in such a project.

Planning Survey Project Aired In Tri-Towns

Civic Group Hears State Experts

LUKE—The program of planning studies for the Tri-Towns was discussed at a dinner meeting Wednesday evening at the Westvaco, guests of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

The Tri-Towns Community Council sponsored the meeting of which Mrs. Arthur Hartman, Piedmont is president.

John H. Larson, Hagerstown, community development and planning consultant of the Potomac Edison Company, presided and led the discussion.

Others outlining the program were Richard Gucker, chief of the local planning section of State Planning Department, Baltimore and Robert Pasley, chief of the local planning section West Virginia Department of Commerce. Kenneth Creaseling accompanied Gucker and Harry Cardea, accompanied Pasley.

Keyser is one of the first towns in West Virginia to begin this program which was inaugurated last January. There are between 20 and 24 surveys now in progress in that state.

In Maryland, Cumberland is the closest city which has started the program.

The federal government pays 75 percent of the cost of a professional person to make a survey. Such a survey for Westernport and Piedmont, if combined would cost approximately $15,000, with the cost to each town about $2,000.

Before the consultant is employed a planning board of about nine members would be set up. Board members would not receive any money for their services. One member of that board would be a member of the town council. This body would select the consultant to make the survey.

The consultant employed would make a survey of the town's facilities and needs that he would recommend to make it a better community.

Urban Renewal Plan Outlined

PIEDMONT — A briefing on Community Planning and Urban Renewal was given to the mayors and town councils of Westernport and Piedmont Tuesday evening by John Larson, Hagerstown, community development and planning consultant of the Potomac Edison Company.

In the program there must be a survey made of the community, listing the towns facilities and things that would improve the towns, Larson said.

This would be followed by the Urban Renewal program. The government would provide 75 per cent of both programs in a grant.

Larson pointed out it would be feasible if a combined survey of the three towns were made, if they are interested in such a project.

Planning Survey Project Aired In Tri-Towns

Civic Group Hears State Experts

LUKE—The program of planning studies for the Tri-Towns was discussed at a dinner meeting Wednesday evening at the Westvaco, guests of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

The Tri-Towns Community Council sponsored the meeting of which Mrs. Arthur Hartman, Piedmont is president.

John H. Larson, Hagerstown, community development and planning consultant of the Potomac Edison Company, presided and led the discussion.

Others outlining the program were Richard Gucker, chief of the local planning section of State Planning Department, Baltimore and Robert Pasley, chief of the local planning section West Virginia Department of Commerce. Kenneth Creaseling accompanied Gucker and Harry Cardea, accompanied Pasley.

Keyser is one of the first towns in West Virginia to begin this program which was inaugurated last January. There are between 20 and 24 surveys now in progress in that state.

In Maryland, Cumberland is the closest city which has started the program.

The federal government pays 75 percent of the cost of a professional person to make a survey. Such a survey for Westernport and Piedmont, if combined would cost approximately $15,000, with the cost to each town about $2,000.

Before the consultant is employed a planning board of about nine members would be set up. Board members would not receive any money for their services. One member of that board would be a member of the town council. This body would select the consultant to make the survey.

The consultant employed would make a survey of the town's facilities and needs that he would recommend to make it a better community.

Fireman Cited For Carrying Man From Fire

The alertness of Fireman Elmer Eshbaugh in carrying an invalid from a burning home to safety at 2:30 a. m. January 7 was cited by Fire Chief James Loar at a meeting Tuesday of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department in the fire hall.

Chief Loar said Eshbaugh, who lives next door to the residence of C. M. Engle, 67, at 66 National Highway, carried Engle to safety and then almost single-handedly put out the fire before firemen arrived.

Eshbaugh grabbed the burning bedclothes thought to have been set on fire by Engle who had been smoking and quenched them in the bathtub.

Chief Loar and Paul Boch, assistant chief at the time, stated that Eshbaugh's alertness possibly saved the double house from damage along with some other dwellings.

Another feature of the meeting was installation of officers by David Kirk, Bowling Green, second vice president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association and past president of the Allegang-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

The new officers are Paul Boch, president; Henry Wintermyer, vice president; Cromwell C. Zembower, recording secretary; James Schell, financial secretary; George Hickle, treasurer; John Campbell, three-year trustee; Waverly Rice, two-year trustee, and Richard Roland, one-year trustee. Elmer Eshbaugh, sergeant-at-arms; James Loar, chief, and Jerry Proud, assistant chief.

Chief Loar reported the company answered three alarms since the last meeting. He also called for an indoor drill Thursday, January 18, at 7 p. m. He said six members attended the fire officers school held Monday at Cresaptown.

Wintermyer, the immediate past president, reported on the county association meeting he attended Sunday in Cresaptown.

President Boch said the county central alarm committee will meet at the LaVale Fire Hall today at 7:30 p. m.

Bruce Long III, chairman of the Christmas tree committee, reported that the community tree program was a success.

Zembower and Hickle, co-chairmen of the annual fund drive, said that call-backs must be completed by members by the next meeting on Tuesday, January 23 as the campaign will close at that time.

They also reminded citizens who have not donated to drop their donation in the mail.

The 29th anniversary dinner will be held Friday, February 17, at 6:30 p. m.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a woman 42, and in good health. During World War II I was a master sergeant in the Transportation Corps. Since I was in charge of a motor pool I learned a lot about automobiles and could change a tire in seven minutes.

After the war I married a nice guy who is plenty on the lazy side. I've worked two jobs since the day we maried.

Last night we were driving my aunt home from a party when he had a flat. Roy said "Honey, let's see if you can still change a tire in seven minutes."

I was embarrassed but decided to make a joke of the whole thing because I knew good and well he'd never do it. So I got out of the car in my high heels and satin dress and changed the tire.

Today I'm mad at myself. Do you think I did the right thing or not? If the situation comes up again what should I do?

—RETREAD

DEAR RETREAD: You did the right thing. A sense of humor can be a sturdy prop and you were wise to lean on it.

Next time you get a flat tell Roy you gave up changing tires when you put your uniform in mothballs. If he isn't up to the job hand him a dime and tell him to go to the nearest phone and call for help.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife passed way in 1956. Six months ago I married a woman who is attractive, intelligent and a fine companion.

Her living room furniture was better than mine so she moved it into my home. She also brought over her drapes and rugs. We are using my bedroom set and this is the cause of all the trouble. She claims she can't sleep in the bed because it reminds her of my deceased wife.

I say for an intelligent woman it is utterly ridiculous to be haunted by a ghost. After all, she is my wife now and the past has nothing to do with her. How can I get this across?

—SOUND SLEEPER

DEAR SLEEPER: Is your marriage worth the price of a new bedroom set? Then buy one.

Your wife's approach to the bedroom furniture is purely emotional and all the reasoning in the world won't reach her.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter was born on December 24th. We are seriously considering changing her birthday to June 24th and would like your opinion.

It's very difficut to give a birthday party the day before Christmas. And then, too, the child whose birthday falls on Christmas always get cheated out of one set of presents. Everyone wants to give a birthday and Christmas gift in one. This hardly seems fair.

When we told a close friend that we were considering changing our child's birthday she looked at us as if we were nuts. Are we? —POOR PLANNERS

DEAR PLANNERS: Parents who place such strong emphasis on a double set of gifts give a child a shabby sense of values.

The date of birth as registered on a birth certificate cannot be altered. Attempting to change your child's birthday may create problems in relation to school admission, insurance, social security and so on. And what for—an extra box of stationery and another record album? Forget it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE VICTORIAN: You're on the wrong track. Once a halo slips it can become a noose.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fireman Cited For Carrying Man From Fire

The alertness of Fireman Elmer Eshbaugh in carrying an invalid from a burning home to safety at 2:30 a. m. January 7 was cited by Fire Chief James Loar at a meeting Tuesday of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department in the fire hall.

Chief Loar said Eshbaugh, who lives next door to the residence of C. M. Engle, 67, at 66 National Highway, carried Engle to safety and then almost single-handedly put out the fire before firemen arrived.

Eshbaugh grabbed the burning bedclothes thought to have been set on fire by Engle who had been smoking and quenched them in the bathtub.

Chief Loar and Paul Boch, assistant chief at the time, stated that Eshbaugh's alertness possibly saved the double house from damage along with some other dwellings.

Another feature of the meeting was installation of officers by David Kirk, Bowling Green, second vice president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association and past president of the Allegang-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

The new officers are Paul Boch, president; Henry Wintermyer, vice president; Cromwell C. Zembower, recording secretary; James Schell, financial secretary; George Hickle, treasurer; John Campbell, three-year trustee; Waverly Rice, two-year trustee, and Richard Roland, one-year trustee. Elmer Eshbaugh, sergeant-at-arms; James Loar, chief, and Jerry Proud, assistant chief.

Chief Loar reported the company answered three alarms since the last meeting. He also called for an indoor drill Thursday, January 18, at 7 p. m. He said six members attended the fire officers school held Monday at Cresaptown.

Wintermyer, the immediate past president, reported on the county association meeting he attended Sunday in Cresaptown.

President Boch said the county central alarm committee will meet at the LaVale Fire Hall today at 7:30 p. m.

Bruce Long III, chairman of the Christmas tree committee, reported that the community tree program was a success.

Zembower and Hickle, co-chairmen of the annual fund drive, said that call-backs must be completed by members by the next meeting on Tuesday, January 23 as the campaign will close at that time.

They also reminded citizens who have not donated to drop their donation in the mail.

The 29th anniversary dinner will be held Friday, February 17, at 6:30 p. m.

Coming Full Circle In Laos

American policy in Laos has been highly inconsistent over the years. During 1960 and part of 1961 it was U. S. policy in Laos to help the so-called "rightist" forces represented by Gen. Phoumi Nosavan and Prince Boun Oum. They were given military and economic aid to meet the drive of the Communist Pathet Lao to take over the country. These forces showed little will to fight.

So Washington shifted to an international effort to bring about a cease-fire in Laos. The Communists, of course, did all they could to make these peace efforts ineffective. But the United States was firmly lined up behind a policy of letting Laos have the peace it wanted.

This meant endorsing the leadership of the neutralist Prince Souvannah Phouma, who is remarkably naive in his tendency to trust the good intentions of the Communists.

Washington hoped that this course might prevent or at least delay a Communist victory in Laos, which otherwise seemed almost a certainty without large-scale American intervention. Some sort of shaky agreement was reached at Geneva, and all that remained was for the three princes — rightist, neutralist and Communist — to agree to the terms under which a coalition headed by Souvannah Phouma could take over.

Their agreement has now been blocked by the rightist forces Washington was aiding earlier, who apparently fear Laos is about to be taken over by the Communists like China was. So Washington has started to withdraw its economic support from Boun Oum's government to bring it to heel.

Thus the U. S. has come full circle. Where Washington previously wanted to keep Souvannah Phouma out as premier because of his leftist sympathies, it now wants him as a lesser evil. Where Washington once supported Boun Oum and Phoumi Nosavan, it is now getting tough with them in the faint hope of saving something out of the wreck.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What Happens To A Man?

Sig Hall writes to the Houston Chronicle wondering what has happened to me. Sig Hall apparently is shocked that conservatives "like Sokolsky, will probably be content to sit out a few dances." That is not at all astonishing because a conservative is essentially an individualist who lives by a creed of historic memory and who is not driven by the popularities of the moment.

As Conservatism — the word, rather than the idea— grows more popular, all sorts of individuals and groups hook on to it. Many such persons are truly idealistic; others are hopeful that there is a little money to be made out of advocating some special principle.

What has crept into conservatism is a vile disease, the fellow who sells ideals like his predecessor sold snake-oil. He has a right to his ideals if there is a moral basis for his position, as there was for the anti-Communists of the 1930's who risked their careers and even lives fighting the Commies. These new fellows have no more right to expect the old line Conservatives to go along with them than the Commies had a right to expect Norman Thomas to go along with them.

As for myself, I have always held to the position that unless a man is an American citizen he has no right to interfere in our affairs. When a fellow wants to wander about the country telling the American people what they ought to do, he ought to become an American citizen. When a fellow is in this country more than five years and has failed to become an American citizen, I want to know why he butts into our affairs. It does not matter to me whether he is a Russian, a German, a Britisher or an Australian, he ought to join up. If he does not, there must be a reason.

Sig Hall says:

"Historically, some extremist groups in this country have started out well and good — with admirable objectives. But, sooner or later — either from subversion at the top or apathy at the bottom — they settle into a mass of malcontents that lean heavily on hate as a bonding agent. They manifest dislikes for whole groups of people. It could be Jews, Catholics, Negroes, dogcatchers, tax collectors or even the guys who write TV commercials. Hate seems to be a necessary ingredient. Hitler parlayed a choice of two (Jews and Reds) into a power grab that came close to toppling the civilized world."

When a man goes about this country advocating hate and collecting about $300,000 doing it, I want to know what his real mission is; what he does with the money collected; how much of that money is spent beneficially to the United States. I want to know if this fellow pays income taxes like the rest of us or whether he has discovered some gimmick for evasion.

Recent activities among some newer conservatives frighten older conservatives who dislike the extremist positions taken by those who are emotionally opposed to some of the developments of this century and who cannot relate what they witness to their conscience.

In a word, enormous historic changes must be adjusted to current life. Undoubtedly, those who were faced by the earliest manifestations of the Industrial Revolution, particularly the movement of population from rural areas to large cities with all the changes that that single historic event brought about, were dissatisfied. To cite one example, marriage customs changed violently leading to free marriage — that is, the selection of mates not by parents but by those who are to be husbands and wives — a change which ultimately led to increased divorce.

The social changes arising from this single sociological development have been enormous in Western civilization and not altogether beneficial, but even the Roman Catholic Church which limits divorce by Canon Law to annulment under specific terms has been faced by the fact that the change has required a new view of marital relationships, particularly the evils that arise from voluntary broken homes.

The conservative is not a reactionary. He does not expect the Earth to stand still on its axis; nor does he want it to spin wildly like a ball on fire. He hopes that knowledge will prevail and that reason will lead to wisdom and propriety. This is the essential difference between the conservation and the reactionary.

'We Still Have A Marginal Lead'

How McCone Got His Fast Start Up The Long Government Ladder

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy has picked some A-1 men for high office—some of the best in the past two decades. But either the FBI was asleep or the President had his mind on the Berlin crisis when he picked John A. McCone to head the giant Central Intelligence Agency which has a vital influence over American foreign policy.

Looking back over McCone's past, he has a record for making money out of Uncle Sam unequalled by any other man now in government. The record is all spelled out in Congressional hearings, and it would have been easy for the FBI to have read it. The FBI, however, asks questions. It doesn't read.

Cross-examined regarding his ship-building partnership with the Henry Kaiser interests at San Francisco during the war, McCone admitted to the House Merchant Marine Committee that the government had put up almost all the capital for their California Shipbuilding Company, of which McCone was president. It netted around a $44,000,000 profit.

"What was the total cost to the government of building your yard?" asked committee counsel Marvin Coles.

"Some $25,000,000," replied McCone.

"How much of the moneys of your corporation were invested in the physical yard?"

"Very little, very little," replied the president of the company.

"Were there any profits to subcontractors?"

"Oh yes, there must have been."

A Wonderful Deal

"Did any of the executives receive management salaries that were reimbursable by the commission?"

"The executives . . . were reimbursed in a manner agreed to by the commission."

"And that was with government funds?" McCone was asked.

"That is correct."

"With material supplied by the government, with labor paid for by the government, with interest on borrowed capital paid for by the government, with management salaries paid for by the government, what were the fees and profits paid for?"

The House Merchant Marine Committee also developed the fact that the government had turned over to McCone, Kaiser et al, all of the government's materials, machinery, and other facilities located at the shipyard estimated as worth about $14,000,000.

"The government put in $25,000,000 to the building of this yard," counsel Coles asked. "At the time of the completion of the contract was there any government-owned material in California Shipbuilding Company s yards?"

"There was," was McCone's laconic reply.

Coles asked if the value of $14,000,000 was accurate.

"That might have been the original cost of it, but a large percentage of it was nothing."

"Did you pay any money for this shipyard and the surplus property in the yard when you acquired it from the government?" Coles asked.

"We relieved the Maritime Commission of all their obligations and responsibilities for the restoration of the site that was owned by the Los Angeles Harbor Board," was McCone's alibi.

More Gravy

"Did you receive in addition to this yard that had cost $25,000,000 and this material which may have cost $14,000,000, an additional sum of $2,500,00 in cash?" pressed Coles.

"No," replied McCone, "but we did receive a revision of our selective price contract under which the amount of recapture was reduced by $2,500,000."

"So in effect you got an additional $2,500,000, did you?"

"You might put it that way," finally admitted the president of the shipping company.

Rep. Alvin Weichel, Ohio Republican, also brought out the fact that McCone-Kaiser deducted from income taxes $4,000,000 in nonreimbursable expenses, which McCone said was given away in salary bonuses, charities, group insurance premiums, and ship-launching expenses.

"Did you give away $5,000 diamond neckleces?" asked Congressman Weichel.

"No, we gave $60 cigarette boxes," replied McCone, adding that the top gift was $800 to a ship sponsor.

"The government got cut both ways with it," pursued Rep. Weichel. "Your company was reimbursed for all the expenditures, for wages, materials, administrative costs, and everything except the $4,000,000. And this $4,000,000 you deducted from income taxes, so the government paid it that way. They did not pay it to you direct, but you deducted it from your income tax."

"To the extent that it lessened our tax," McCone concurred.

Summarizing the facts, McCone's fellow Republican, Congressman Weichel, said: "The total number of ships you built was 467. The plant cost the government $25,000,000. There was $14,000,000 worth of property there when it was finished and you got $2,500,000 credit. That is roughly $41,000,00 . . ."

"Altogether your company got $91,000,000 for building 467 ships. Roughly, without the deduction of taxes, it cost the government nearly $200,000 in fees for each ship built by your company.

"The Todd (shipbuilding) people," Congressman Weichel pointed out, "had roughly $11,000,000 in fees and the plant cost about $14,000,000. Theirs was about half the cost to the government. Yours was $200,000 per ship."

That was how John A. McCone, now nominated to be head of CIA, got his big start up the business ladder to big government jobs and more profits in business.

WASHINGTON

During the past ten days, the national capital has unobtrusively received two distinguished visitors.

The remarkable Frenchman, Jean Monnet, the almost single-handed originator of European Union, arrived first. But he was soon followed by Edwart Heath, Lord Privy Seal, who is the British minister charged with negotiating Britain's entry into the European Common Market.

Both men came for the same basic reason, because they wanted to test the Washington climate for themselves, and to form their own estimate of President Kennedy's chances of passing this bold trade liberalization program at this session of Congress.

Monnet had other business as well. He wanted to talk with old Washington friends like Undersecretary of State George Ball and Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon about the forms that American association with the European Common Market ought to take, when and if the Kennedy trade program becomes law. Reportedly, he also found time for a slightly stormy dinner-meeting with Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman.

The storminess (a rare thing indeed in Monnet's encounters with Americans) was occasioned by the fact that the six present members of the Common Market are now nearing the end of their work on a common agricultural policy. The task has not been easy, for one main reason, because the West German farmers are very high cost producers, especially of grains, and very heavy voters, especially for Chancellor Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union.

The final deal on a common agricultural policy has not been made. It may not be made this year, in fact. But the tendency is clear. Those countries in the Six, like Germany, where prices for farm products are high and protected, will be asked to bring their prices down a bit over a period. The long term aim will be a single European price for farm products.

Meanwhile, equalization fees will be levied in such a way that the lower cost European farm producers, like the French, will enjoy a slight competitive advantage in the European market. European needs for farm products which cannot be locally satisfied will then be met by imports from this country or elsewhere overseas. And their imports form outside Europe will pay a slightly higher equalization fee.

At present the U. S. annually exports to Europe about $1.1 billion of farm products. Of these exports, about one-third are in crops—wheat and other grains, tobacco, poultry, and vegetable oils —which will be adversely affected by the Common Market's new agricultural policy. According to Agriculture Department experts, the eventual export loss in this area of the sensitive one-third could reach 50 per ce with the heaviest loss in wheat exports.

For just this reason, Secretary Freeman has been conducting a hard and apparently winning fight within the Administration to have the President's trade bill drafted in such a way to provide bargaining leverage which may soften the blow to our farm exports. With good reason, he hopes thereby to secure farm state Congressional support for th trade bill. His debate with Monnet, by the same token, concern American agriculture's need to keep its share of the European market.

All these facts, which may seem at first to have no pattern, in reality make a clear pattern. From this pattern two points emerge.

First of all, as the emerging threat to our farm exports suggests, the real argument for President Kennedy's new trade law is not that European Union is a Good Thing which we ought generously to encourage. The real argument is that the Common Market will create the gravest sort of economic problems for this country, unless the President receives the freedom of action needed to bargain with the Europeans on equal terms. Even so, the anguish is likely to be considerable in the U. S., at least during the period of adjustment

Secondly, it is notable that Monnet was not discussing this country's "joining" the Common Market with Secretary Dillon and the others. The Europeans, including even the pro-American Monnet, would be absolutely horrified if the U. S. applied for membership in their club, because our national size and power would overshadow all the other members. What Monnet was discussing was U. S.-European "association", to deal as partners with such specific matters as monetary imbalances, raw materials surpluses, and so on.

In other words, European Union is not a Good Thing because it is the precursor of a sort of parliament of Western man. It is only a Good Thing because it promises to be a vital new element of Western strength, although a new element of strength which will also have many inconveniences for this country, so long accustomed to unchallenged leadership and domination.

DAYS TO REMEMBER — Administrators of Washington, D. C., the national city, plan to make it tougher for the horde of publicity flacks who go around the nation promoting commemorative days, weeks and months.

In recent weeks, for instance, the commissioners of the District of Columbia have refused to issue official proclamations for the observance of National Laugh Week, International Shut-in Day and Mother-in-Law Day. They took a long time before they finally decided in favor of declaring next April 28 as Grandmother Day.

To avoid future confusion on policy, which never has been set on an over-all basis, they have designated a committee of city officials to draft a policy for the future.

While the committee is about it, the commissioners have also called for a review of the practice of giving keys to the city of visiting dignitaries and quasi-dignitaries.

Last year, for instance, 123 keys to the city were bestowed on visitors — most of them bona fide recipients, but a few promoted by effective press agents. The commissioners want a policy on keys because they fear that indiscriminate bestowals will "cheapen" the gesture.

It isn't a problem of supply. The keys are made at Lorton Reformatory, the penal institution for Washington.

Halitosis May Originate In Mouth Or Nose

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

There is a simple way to determine whether halitosis originates in the mouth or in the nose and throat: Ask your best friend to be the judge. Pinch the nostrils, hold the breath a moment, and allow the air in the mouth to escape without force. This is mouth air.

Then close the lips firmly and exhale forcibly through the nostrils. This breath comes from the nose, throat, and lungs. The air by-passes the mouth and when the odor is most noticeable from the nostrils, there is no sense worrying abouth the teeth, tongue, or tonsils. Vice versa also is true.

Common causes of halitosis are decaying teeth, unhealthy gums, or low grade infections in the nose, sinuses, throat, or bronchial tree. Food particles are trapped easily between the teeth and the papillae of the tongue. Halitosis occurs when the particles remain and begin to decay.

Careful brushing is recommended followed by rinsing the mouth with water. A half teaspoonful of salt can be added to a glass of water, plus a drop or two of iodine. Odors from certin foods, alcohol, or tobacco are difficult to eliminate. A substitute odor can be obtained with gum or clove. Chewing one or two coffee beans also helps.

A dry mouth encourages an offensive breath. This may result from mouth breathing, usually secondary to nasal obstruction. Unpleasant odors also arise from chronic infections of the nose, especially those involving the lining membrane. Ozena leads to a most distressing odor; here, a long-standing infection has destroyed the surface of the membrane. The victim of this nasal condition ought to build up his general health via diet, rest, and out of door exercise. Vitamins and cortisone help occasionally.

Foul breath may be a sign of infection or some other type disorder. The tye of scent may offer the clue. The odor in a person with a liver disorder is much different from that in an individual with peritonitis, lung abscess, or a stomach condition. But individuals with such maladies usually are extremely ill and the odor of the breath is not important.

Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on foul breath if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

COLD AFFECTS HANDS

F. F. writes: My husband went swimming in fairly cool water last summer. This caused aching of the hands and, ever since, whenever he puts his hands in cold water, this peculiar sensation return. He also gets it when he first touches the steering wheel in the morning. Could this be arthritis?

REPLY

No. The condition has all the earmarks of a circulatory disorder (Raynaud's syndromel.) Another possibility is allergy to cold.

ENLARGING BONES

P. M. B. writes: A woman with bad headaches was told by a doctor she has a head disease that makes people giants. What is the name of this diesease?

REPLY

Acromegaly, a disorder of the pituitary gland that leads to progressive enlargement of the head, face, hands, and feet.

BONY TUMORS

L. M. writes: A painless bump has appeared on my forehead. After having X-rays, my doctor says it is an exostosis. He did not recommend its removal. How does such a formation occur?

REPLY

FIBROIDS AND INFERTILITY

Mrs. C. writes: Could a fibroid tumor of the uterus prevent a woman from becoming pregnant?

REPLY

Yes, especially if the inward tumor protrudes into the cavity of the uterus.

CHILDREN'S ARCHES

Mrs. J. B. writes: My 3 year old son has had flat feet since birth. Is operation needed to correct this condition?

REPLY

Flatfoot is common in childhood. Improvement occurs when the arches are strengthened through walking, running, jumping, and climbing. Correction may be needed if your boy continues to walk with the feet turned out. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on flat feet.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Joan Carr attended one of Arthur Rubinstein's magnificent piano recitals at Carnegie Hall. It ended with the customary richly deserved ovation by the enthralled audience. Applauding even more vociferously than anybody else, noted Miss Carr, were a couble of uniformed ushers. She whispered to her companion, "Those lads appreciate a great musician more than most of the frauds who pay seven-seventy a ticket."

That's when she heard one usher telling another, "If we can keep this applause going five minutes more, we'll collect overtime."

In his memoirs, Sir Cedric Hardwicke recalls the distinguished tragedienne who decided she'd like to have a go at the title role in George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan." So she cabled Mr. Shaw, "Am crazy to play Saint Joan."

Shaw cabled back, "I thoroughly agree."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

We were driving south on Route Nine in New York. Kelly and I were homeward bound on this antique artery when we hit the thrombosis at Ossining. This is the only town I know which maintains traffic cops to make sure that nobody gets anywhere. The lights aren't even synchronized. The only good wiring job is in the electric chair at Sing Sing.

The subject in the car was Planning Ahead. "Neither you nor the housekeeper do any planning," I said. "If she uses a can of beans, why can't she put it on an order list when she throws the empty can away?"

"Maybe," said my blonde beautiful wife, "when she's cooking, she's not in the mood for writing." The policeman ahead at Highland decided to hold everybody up while he went off to find an old lady and a couple of boy scouts. "Put her in the mood," I said. "That woman has no idea what's in the freezer or on the shelves."

"If I ask for a leg of lamb, she says: 'We ain't got none'. This not only lacerates good grammar, it also ruins my bad disposition."

"I try to plan with her," Kelly said. "I'm afraid she's not much of a thinker ahead." "Oh," I said, snarling, "I love that sentence too. If you must know, I'm tired of seeing the Fox Foodtown truck outside every day. You can order groceries once a week."

Silence. The policeman came back. He had traffic piled up both ways on Route Nine, and local traffic backed up beyond City Hall. Now he waved them on with the impatience of a man who is tired of looking at automobiles. In 20 minutes, we were out of Ossining.

"We must have some planning," I said. "You don't wait until Christmas to buy warm winter clothing for the children. I don't wait until the last hour of deadline to write a column. We both keep an appointment calendar so that we know what we're going to do through the week."

"You can't plan everything," she said quietly. I nodded in agreement. We rolled south through Tarrytown and across the Tappan Zee Bridge and down the Garden State Parkway into New Jersey. "That isn't my point," I said defensively. "Not everything — some things. Like food. Like clothing. Like what time we have to be ready to leave the house."

"Like putting on your tux," she said, "and walking out in your bedroom slippers."

"Forgetfulness," I said. "Pure forgetfulness. It has nothing to do with the proper planning of a household. Besides, it only happened once."

Silence. We made a brief stop in Newark and got onto the Jersey Turnpike. It was a cold clear night. The car heater was on low and we would be home in an hour.

"Take this car," I said. "Long before the tires are gone, I tell Walter Shea to replace them. When the automatic choke begins to falter, I don't wait until I die on the road before getting it fixed. Even with an automobile, it is necessary to think ahead. I put the anti-freeze in it in October.

"I know," she said. "You're a real dandy planner, you are. I'll switch jobs with you."

"Huh," I said. "If all I had to do was take care of a house and two little girls, I'd spend most of my time loafing."

"I walked right into that," she said. "Didn't I?"

"None of it is that important," I said. "It's merely that I like plenty of food on the table and no embarrassment if a couple of extras show up. I can't stand a housekeeper who says: "I'm sorry. We're all out of ketchup.' Or 'The last of the salad dressing went yesterday.' "

"Of what, for goodness' sake!"

"New house. New people. Strange equipment. It takes at least a week for a woman to learn the ropes."

"What does she have to learn? She knows how to cook, doesn't she? So all she has to learn is what kind of a kitchen we have, where the shelves are, what's on them, and that's all. This takes a week?"

"There's more to it than that." I didn't hear the rest of the speech. The car was slowing down, even though I had not moved my foot on the accelerator. Slowly, steadily, I jockeyed it from the fast lane over through the middle one, and, still slowing, through the slow one to the shoulder of the highway at Elizabeth, N. J.

The car died opposite a funeral parlor. I tried to start it. It wouldn't go. We sat for 55 minutes waiting for help. Then a State Trooper arrived. I got out. "Trooper Longo," he said, sticking his hand out the window. "What's the trouble?"

"Sounds crazy," I said apologetically, "but I'm out of gas."...

Coming Full Circle In Laos

American policy in Laos has been highly inconsistent over the years. During 1960 and part of 1961 it was U. S. policy in Laos to help the so-called "rightist" forces represented by Gen. Phoumi Nosavan and Prince Boun Oum. They were given military and economic aid to meet the drive of the Communist Pathet Lao to take over the country. These forces showed little will to fight.

So Washington shifted to an international effort to bring about a cease-fire in Laos. The Communists, of course, did all they could to make these peace efforts ineffective. But the United States was firmly lined up behind a policy of letting Laos have the peace it wanted.

This meant endorsing the leadership of the neutralist Prince Souvannah Phouma, who is remarkably naive in his tendency to trust the good intentions of the Communists.

Washington hoped that this course might prevent or at least delay a Communist victory in Laos, which otherwise seemed almost a certainty without large-scale American intervention. Some sort of shaky agreement was reached at Geneva, and all that remained was for the three princes — rightist, neutralist and Communist — to agree to the terms under which a coalition headed by Souvannah Phouma could take over.

Their agreement has now been blocked by the rightist forces Washington was aiding earlier, who apparently fear Laos is about to be taken over by the Communists like China was. So Washington has started to withdraw its economic support from Boun Oum's government to bring it to heel.

Thus the U. S. has come full circle. Where Washington previously wanted to keep Souvannah Phouma out as premier because of his leftist sympathies, it now wants him as a lesser evil. Where Washington once supported Boun Oum and Phoumi Nosavan, it is now getting tough with them in the faint hope of saving something out of the wreck.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What Happens To A Man?

Sig Hall writes to the Houston Chronicle wondering what has happened to me. Sig Hall apparently is shocked that conservatives "like Sokolsky, will probably be content to sit out a few dances." That is not at all astonishing because a conservative is essentially an individualist who lives by a creed of historic memory and who is not driven by the popularities of the moment.

As Conservatism — the word, rather than the idea— grows more popular, all sorts of individuals and groups hook on to it. Many such persons are truly idealistic; others are hopeful that there is a little money to be made out of advocating some special principle.

What has crept into conservatism is a vile disease, the fellow who sells ideals like his predecessor sold snake-oil. He has a right to his ideals if there is a moral basis for his position, as there was for the anti-Communists of the 1930's who risked their careers and even lives fighting the Commies. These new fellows have no more right to expect the old line Conservatives to go along with them than the Commies had a right to expect Norman Thomas to go along with them.

As for myself, I have always held to the position that unless a man is an American citizen he has no right to interfere in our affairs. When a fellow wants to wander about the country telling the American people what they ought to do, he ought to become an American citizen. When a fellow is in this country more than five years and has failed to become an American citizen, I want to know why he butts into our affairs. It does not matter to me whether he is a Russian, a German, a Britisher or an Australian, he ought to join up. If he does not, there must be a reason.

Sig Hall says:

"Historically, some extremist groups in this country have started out well and good — with admirable objectives. But, sooner or later — either from subversion at the top or apathy at the bottom — they settle into a mass of malcontents that lean heavily on hate as a bonding agent. They manifest dislikes for whole groups of people. It could be Jews, Catholics, Negroes, dogcatchers, tax collectors or even the guys who write TV commercials. Hate seems to be a necessary ingredient. Hitler parlayed a choice of two (Jews and Reds) into a power grab that came close to toppling the civilized world."

When a man goes about this country advocating hate and collecting about $300,000 doing it, I want to know what his real mission is; what he does with the money collected; how much of that money is spent beneficially to the United States. I want to know if this fellow pays income taxes like the rest of us or whether he has discovered some gimmick for evasion.

Recent activities among some newer conservatives frighten older conservatives who dislike the extremist positions taken by those who are emotionally opposed to some of the developments of this century and who cannot relate what they witness to their conscience.

In a word, enormous historic changes must be adjusted to current life. Undoubtedly, those who were faced by the earliest manifestations of the Industrial Revolution, particularly the movement of population from rural areas to large cities with all the changes that that single historic event brought about, were dissatisfied. To cite one example, marriage customs changed violently leading to free marriage — that is, the selection of mates not by parents but by those who are to be husbands and wives — a change which ultimately led to increased divorce.

The social changes arising from this single sociological development have been enormous in Western civilization and not altogether beneficial, but even the Roman Catholic Church which limits divorce by Canon Law to annulment under specific terms has been faced by the fact that the change has required a new view of marital relationships, particularly the evils that arise from voluntary broken homes.

The conservative is not a reactionary. He does not expect the Earth to stand still on its axis; nor does he want it to spin wildly like a ball on fire. He hopes that knowledge will prevail and that reason will lead to wisdom and propriety. This is the essential difference between the conservation and the reactionary.

'We Still Have A Marginal Lead'

How McCone Got His Fast Start Up The Long Government Ladder

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy has picked some A-1 men for high office—some of the best in the past two decades. But either the FBI was asleep or the President had his mind on the Berlin crisis when he picked John A. McCone to head the giant Central Intelligence Agency which has a vital influence over American foreign policy.

Looking back over McCone's past, he has a record for making money out of Uncle Sam unequalled by any other man now in government. The record is all spelled out in Congressional hearings, and it would have been easy for the FBI to have read it. The FBI, however, asks questions. It doesn't read.

Cross-examined regarding his ship-building partnership with the Henry Kaiser interests at San Francisco during the war, McCone admitted to the House Merchant Marine Committee that the government had put up almost all the capital for their California Shipbuilding Company, of which McCone was president. It netted around a $44,000,000 profit.

"What was the total cost to the government of building your yard?" asked committee counsel Marvin Coles.

"Some $25,000,000," replied McCone.

"How much of the moneys of your corporation were invested in the physical yard?"

"Very little, very little," replied the president of the company.

"Were there any profits to subcontractors?"

"Oh yes, there must have been."

A Wonderful Deal

"Did any of the executives receive management salaries that were reimbursable by the commission?"

"The executives . . . were reimbursed in a manner agreed to by the commission."

"And that was with government funds?" McCone was asked.

"That is correct."

"With material supplied by the government, with labor paid for by the government, with interest on borrowed capital paid for by the government, with management salaries paid for by the government, what were the fees and profits paid for?"

The House Merchant Marine Committee also developed the fact that the government had turned over to McCone, Kaiser et al, all of the government's materials, machinery, and other facilities located at the shipyard estimated as worth about $14,000,000.

"The government put in $25,000,000 to the building of this yard," counsel Coles asked. "At the time of the completion of the contract was there any government-owned material in California Shipbuilding Company s yards?"

"There was," was McCone's laconic reply.

Coles asked if the value of $14,000,000 was accurate.

"That might have been the original cost of it, but a large percentage of it was nothing."

"Did you pay any money for this shipyard and the surplus property in the yard when you acquired it from the government?" Coles asked.

"We relieved the Maritime Commission of all their obligations and responsibilities for the restoration of the site that was owned by the Los Angeles Harbor Board," was McCone's alibi.

More Gravy

"Did you receive in addition to this yard that had cost $25,000,000 and this material which may have cost $14,000,000, an additional sum of $2,500,00 in cash?" pressed Coles.

"No." replied McCone, "but we did receive a revision of our selective price contract under which the amount of recapture was reduced by $2,500,000."

"So in effect you got an additional $2,500,000, did you?"

"You might put it that way," finally admitted the president of the shipping company.

Rep. Alvin Weichel, Ohio Republican, also brought out the fact that McCone-Kaiser deducted from income taxes $4,000,000 in nonreimbursable expenses, which McCone said was given away in salary bonuses, charities, group insurance premiums, and ship-launching expenses.

"Did you give away $5,000 diamond neckleces?" asked Congressman Weichel.

"No, we gave $60 cigarette boxes," replied McCone, adding that the top gift was $800 to a ship sponsor.

"The government got cut both ways with it," pursued Rep. Weichel. "Your company was reimbursed for all the expenditures, for wages, materials, administrative costs, and everything except the $4,000,000. And this $4,000,000 you deducted from income taxes, so the government paid it that way. They did not pay it to you direct, but you deducted it from your income tax."

"To the extent that it lessened our tax," McCone concurred.

Summarizing the facts, McCone's fellow Republican, Congressman Weichel, said: "The total number of ships you built was 467. The plant cost the government $25,000,000. There was $14,000,000 worth of property there when it was finished and you got $2,500,000 credit. That is roughly $41,000,00 . . ."

"Altogether your company got $91,000,000 for building 467 ships. Roughly, without the deduction of taxes, it cost the government nearly $200,000 in fees for each ship built by your company.

"The Todd (shipbuilding) people," Congressman Weichel pointed out, "had roughly $11,000,000 in fees and the plant cost about $14,000,000. Theirs was about half the cost to the government. Yours was $200,000 per ship."

That was how John A. McCone, now nominated to be head of CIA, got his big start up the business ladder to big government jobs and more profits in business.

The subject in the car was Planning Ahead. "Neither you nor the housekeeper do any planning," I said. "If she uses a can of beans, why can't she put it on an order list when she throws the empty can away?"

"Maybe," said my blonde beautiful wife, "when she's cooking, she's not in the mood for writing." The policeman ahead at Highland decided to hold everybody up while he went off to find an old lady and a couple of boy scouts. "Put her in the mood," I said. "That woman has no idea what's in the freezer or on the shelves."

"If I ask for a leg of lamb, she says: 'We ain't got none'. This not only lacerates good grammar, it also ruins my bad disposition."

"I try to plan with her," Kelly said. "I'm afraid she's not much of a thinker ahead." "Oh," I said, snarling, "I love that sentence too. If you must know, I'm tired of seeing the Fox Foodtown truck outside every day. You can order groceries once a week."

Silence. The policeman came back. He had traffic piled up both ways on Route Nine, and local traffic backed up beyond City Hall. Now he waved them on with the impatience of a man who is tired of looking at automobiles. In 20 minutes, we were out of Ossining.

"We must have some planning," I said. "You don't wait until Christmas to buy warm winter clothing for the children. I don't wait until the last hour of deadline to write a column. We both keep an appointment calendar so that we know what we're going to do through the week."

"You can't plan everything," she said quietly. I nodded in agreement. We rolled south through Tarrytown and across the Tappan Zee Bridge and down the Garden State Parkway into New Jersey. "That isn't my point." I said defensively. "Not everything — some things. Like food. Like clothing. Like what time we have to be ready to leave the house."

"Like putting on your tux," she said, "and walking out in your bedroom slippers."

"Forgetfulness," I said. "Pure forgetfulness. It has nothing to do with the proper planning of a household. Besides, it only happened once."

Silence. We made a brief stop in Newark and got onto the Jersey Turnpike. It was a cold clear night. The car heater was on low and we would be home in an hour.

"Take this car," I said. "Long before the tires are gone, I tell Walter Shea to replace them. When the automatic choke begins to falter, I don't wait until I die on the road before getting it fixed. Even with an automobile, it is necessary to think ahead. I put the anti-freeze in it in October.

"I know," she said. "You're a real dandy planner, you are. I'll switch jobs with you."

"Huh," I said. "If all I had to do was take care of a house and two little girls, I'd spend most of my time loafing."

"I walked right into that," she said. "Didn't I?"

"None of it is that important," I said. "It's merely that I like plenty of food on the table and no embarrassment if a couple of extras show up. I can't stand a housekeeper who says: "I'm sorry. We're all out of ketchup.' Or 'The last of the salad dressing went yesterday.' "

"Of what, for goodness' sake!"

"New house. New people. Strange equipment. It takes at least a week for a woman to learn the ropes."

"What does she have to learn? She knows how to cook, doesn't she? So all she has to learn is what kind of a kitchen we have, where the shelves are, what's on them, and that's all. This takes a week?"

"There's more to it than that." I didn't hear the rest of the speech. The car was slowing down, even though I had not moved my foot on the accelerator. Slowly, steadily, I jockeyed it from the fast lane over through the middle one, and, still slowing, through the slow one to the shoulder of the highway at Elizabeth, N. J.

The car died opposite a funeral parlor. I tried to start it. It wouldn't go. We sat for 55 minutes waiting for help. Then a State Trooper arrived. I got out. "Trooper Longo," he said, sticking his hand out the window. "What's the trouble?"

"Sounds crazy," I said apologetically, "but I'm out of gas."...

Halitosis May Originate In Mouth Or Nose

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

There is a simple way to determine whether halitosis originates in the mouth or in the nose and throat: Ask your best friend to be the judge. Pinch the nostrils, hold the breath a moment, and allow the air in the mouth to escape without force. This is mouth air.

Then close the lips firmly and exhale forcibly through the nostrils. This breath comes from the nose, throat, and lungs. The air by-passes the mouth and when the odor is most noticeable from the nostrils, there is no sense worrying abouth the teeth, tongue, or tonsils. Vice versa also is true.

Common causes of halitosis are decaying teeth, unhealthy gums, or low grade infections in the nose, sinuses, throat, or bronchial tree. Food particles are trapped easily between the teeth and the papillae of the tongue. Halitosis occurs when the particles remain and begin to decay.

Careful brushing is recommended followed by rinsing the mouth with water. A half teaspoonful of salt can be added to a glass of water, plus a drop or two of iodine. Odors from certin foods, alcohol, or tobacco are difficult to eliminate. A substitute odor can be obtained with gum or clove. Chewing one or two coffee beans also helps.

A dry mouth encourages an offensive breath. This may result from mouth breathing, usually secondary to nasal obstruction. Unpleasant odors also arise from chronic infections of the nose, especially those involving the lining membrane. Ozena leads to a most distressing odor; here, a long-standing infection has destroyed the surface of the membrane. The victim of this nasal condition ought to build up his general health via diet, rest, and out of door exercise. Vitamins and cortisone help occasionally.

Foul breath may be a sign of infection or some other type disorder. The tye of scent may offer the clue. The odor in a person with a liver disorder is much different from that in an individual with peritonitis, lung abscess, or a stomach condition. But individuals with such maladies usually are extremely ill and the odor of the breath is not important.

Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on foul breath if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

COLD AFFECTS HANDS

F. F. writes: My husband went swimming in fairly cool water last summer. This caused aching of the hands and, ever since, whenever he puts his hands in cold water, this peculiar sensation return. He also gets it when he first touches the steering wheel in the morning. Could this be arthritis?

REPLY

No. The condition has all the earmarks of a circulatory disorder (Raynaud's syndromel.) Another possibility is allergy to cold.

ENLARGING BONES

P. M. B. writes: A woman with bad headaches was told by a doctor she has a head disease that makes people giants. What is the name of this diesease?

REPLY

Acromegaly, a disorder of the pituitary gland that leads to progressive enlargement of the head, face, hands, and feet.

BONY TUMORS

L. M. writes: A painless bump has appeared on my forehead. After having X-rays, my doctor says it is an exostosis. He did not recommend its removal. How does such a formation occur?

REPLY

FIBROIDS AND INFERTILITY

Mrs. C. writes: Could a fibroid tumor of the uterus prevent a woman from becoming pregnant?

REPLY

Yes, especially if the inward tumor protrudes into the cavity of the uterus.

CHILDREN'S ARCHES

Mrs. J. B. writes: My 3 year old son has had flat feet since birth. Is operation needed to correct this condition?

REPLY

Flatfoot is common in childhood. Improvement occurs when the arches are strengthened through walking, running, jumping, and climbing. Correction may be needed if your boy continues to walk with the feet turned out. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on flat feet.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Joan Carr attended one of Arthur Rubinstein's magnificent piano recitals at Carnegie Hall. It ended with the customary richly deserved ovation by the enthralled audience. Applauding even more vociferously than anybody else, noted Miss Carr, were a couple of uniformed ushers. She whispered to her companion, "Those lads appreciate a great musician more than most of the frauds who pay seven-seventy a ticket."

That's when she heard one usher telling another, "If we can keep this applause going five minutes more, we'll collect overtime."

In his memoirs, Sir Cedric Hardwicke recalls the distinguished tragedienne who decided she'd like to have a go at the title role in George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan." So she cabled Mr. Shaw, "Am crazy to play Saint Joan."

FTC Bars Sale Of Gloves With Phony Endorsements

Japanese Imports Illegally Used Players' Names

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government has moved to prevent New York City merchants from importing Japanese baseball gloves with phony player endorsements on them.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) issued a consent order that bars sale in this country of gloves that carry names of big-league baseball stars who never used such gloves or approved them.

The FTC said such deception was misleading to teen-age boys or their younger brothers and diverts trade unfairly from competing merchants.

The FTC issued a complaint in November, 1960, that said the importer, acting under directions from two distributing firms, told the Japanese manufacturer to print names of big-league stars on its gloves without permission.

As a result, the complaint said, the names of American League players Tony Kubek, Elston Howard, Rocky Colavito, Whitey Ford, Duke Snider, and Bill Skowron were deceptively used on the gloves.

The consent order settled the complaint. It does not constitute an admission by the firms or their officials that they have violated any law, the FTC said.

Colleges May Ask Congress For Aid Against Pro Teams

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's colleges and universities hinted Thursday they may ask for congressional support to stop professional football teams from signing college football players before their eligibility has expired.

Bill Reed, commissioner of the Big Ten and chairman of the NCAA Legislative Committee, made the implication in a report that will be presented to the full NCAA convention on Saturday.

The loss snapped a six-game winning streak for the Bobcats who went down to defeat for the third time this season. Shepherd's win hiked the Rams to the .500 mark with 5-5 record.

Roscoe Dean and Wayman Everly scored 20 points apiece to lead the Shepherd attack while Bill Wills, a backcourt playmaker, directed the second half drive for the Rams with timely assists and wound up with 18 points for the winners.

Frostburg, which led 32-31 at halftime, was paced by Bill Wiltison with 20 points and George Lauder with 17.

Four Colleges Punished By NCAA For Violations

New Mexico State Put On Probation For Three Years

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) —The NCAA's powerful Council slapped punishment Thursday on four colleges for violations of the athletic code —New Mexico State, Utah, Humboldt State (Calif.) and Whitworth College (Wash.)

The action came on the fourth day of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's 56th convention.

New Mexico State was placed on probation for three years, mainly for football irregularities.

The University of Utah drew a one-year basketball tournament ban.

Approves Recommendation

The Council also approved the recommendation of the NCAA Executive Committee calling for national federations in track and field and gymnastics.

This action, subject to a full membership vote Saturday, further widened the split between the NCAA and Amateur Athletic Union over control of international sports teams.

New Mexico State, whose Warren Woodson was named the NCAA's small college football coach of the year for 1960, was found guilty on four counts involving football and track in 1959 and 1960.

The Council, besides placing New Mexico State on probation for three years, also banned the school from the NCAA-TV pro-TV program for three years and barred all Aggie teams in all sports for two years from participation in NCAA championship competition and NCAA-approved events.

Basketball-proud Utah was charged mainly with illegal handling of a basketball player no longer in school. The charge involved failure to repay a $150 loan, free transportation and payment for part time work not actually earned. Its penalty was a lone-year probation and being banned from the 1962 NCAA basketball championship tournament and other NCAA-approved meets such as the National Invitation and the Christmas tournaments.

Played In Bowls

Humboldt State College of Arcata, Calif., was cited for participation in two post-season football games, uncertified by the NCAA—one in Eureka, Calif., Dec. 3, 1960 and another a week later at St. Petersburg, Fla., in the NAIA Holiday Bowl.

Whitworth College of Spokane, Wash., lost to Humboldt in the game at Eureka with Humboldt advancing to sustain a loss to Lenoir Rhyne at St. Petersburg. Both colleges hold membership in the NAIA as well as the NCAA. But the NAIA events are not NCAA certified.

The council penalty against both Humboldt State and Whitworth was a one-year ban during which neither can participate in any post-season football competition.

The council cited New Mexico State for admitting seven football players, none identified, without meeting the university's regular entrance requirements. All seven were transfer students, three coming in 1959 and four in 1960. Another count involved an offer of illegal financial assistance to a football player by an assistant coach who since has been dismissed by New Mexico State. The coach was Noah Allen, who left the school in June, 1960.

Duke Cagers Top Clemson, 104-96

Duke's Jim Mullins and Art Heyman combined for 58 points between them as the Blue Devils raced to a 15-point first half lead and then almost frittered it away in the closing minutes.

With Duke leading 74-53, Clemson's Tommy Mahaffey staged a one-man show of his own to pull the Tigers back into contention. The rangy senior banged in 17 points in a seven-minute stretch to bring the Tigers to within 94-86. That was as close as Clemson could get, however.

Mullins, who scored 30 points, was credited with 14 of Duke's first 20 points. Heyman wound up with 28.

It was Duke's 10th win in 12 starts.

FTC Bars Sale Of Gloves With Phony Endorsements

Japanese Imports Illegally Used Players' Names

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government has moved to prevent New York City merchants from importing Japanese baseball gloves with phony player endorsements on them.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) issued a consent order that bars sale in this country of gloves that carry names of big-league baseball stars who never used such gloves or approved them.

The FTC said such deception was misleading to teen-age boys or their younger brothers and diverts trade unfairly from competing merchants.

The FTC issued a complaint in November, 1960, that said the importer, acting under directions from two distributing firms, told the Japanese manufacturer to print names of big-league stars on its gloves without permission.

As a result, the complaint said, the names of American League players Tony Kubek, Elston Howard, Rocky Colavito, Whitey Ford, Duke Snider, and Bill Skowron were deceptively used on the gloves.

The consent order settled the complaint. It does not constitute an admission by the firms or their officials that they have violated any law, the FTC said.

the Cas Taylors

Once again we wish to extend our congratulations to Dapper Dan. Each year the Dapper Dan Dinner (and certainly organizational achievements) grows larger and assumes a more important place in the minds and hearts of those interested in the groups' work and in sports.

This year's dinner . . . the 14th annual . . . will be, perhaps, the greatest of all with an all star cast of sporting celebrities scheduled to be on hand.

Certainly, Dapper Dan is to be commended for the great work the organization continues to do . . .

Certainly, we wholeheartedly approve of the tribute paid to native sportsmen who have publicized the area . . .

Certainly, in fact, we are 100% in favor of this wonderful organization named Dapper Dan.

Once again our congratulations on another year of accomplishment!

Colleges May Ask Congress For Aid Against Pro Teams

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's colleges and universities hinted Thursday they may ask for congressional support to stop professional football teams from signing college football players before their eligibility has expired.

Bill Reed, commissioner of the Big Ten and chairman of the NCAA Legislative Committee, made the implication in a report that will be presented to the full NCAA convention on Saturday.

The loss snapped a six-game winning streak for the Bobcats who went down to defeat for the third time this season. Shepherd's win hiked the Rams to the .500 mark with 5-5 record.

Roscoe Dean and Wayman Everly scored 20 points apiece to lead the Shepherd attack while Bill Wills, a backcourt playmaker, directed the second half drive for the Rams with timely assists and wound up with 18 points for the winners.

Frostburg, which led 32-31 at halftime, was paced by Bill Wiltison with 20 points and George Lauder with 17.

SS. Peter and Paul and St. Patrick's scored wins last night to remain tied for first place in the Catholic Youth Basketball League with 5-1 records.

Coach Bob Mattingly's SS. Peter & Paul quint downed Mt. Savage, 56-34, as the latter suffered its sixth straight loss, while Dick Boyle's "Fighting Irish" cagers walloped St. Michael's defending champions, 56-32.

In the third game played on SS. Peter & Paul court, Joe Thompson's St. Peter's floormen from Westernport stayed on the heels of the deadlocked leaders by trimming St. Mary's Gaels, 49-38.

Fourteen of 15 SS. Peter & Paul players broke into the scoring column with Kerry Kelly setting the pacing with 10 points while Bobby McLean garnered nine and Jim Brannon eight. Joe Shaffer scored 12 points for Mt. Savage.

Dennis Carolan and Bobby Boyle with 20 and 18 tallies sparked St. Patrick's attack and Langan was high for St. Michael's with 14.

Tom Moran dumped in 16 points to lead St. Peter's while Terry Davis and Bob Nasser chalked up 14 each. Don Humbertson was the "big gun" for the Gaels with 17 markers.

Four Colleges Punished By NCAA For Violations

New Mexico State Put On Probation For Three Years

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) —The NCAA's powerful Council slapped punishment Thursday on four colleges for violations of the athletic code —New Mexico State, Utah, Humboldt State (Calif.) and Whitworth College (Wash.)

The action came on the fourth day of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's 56th convention.

New Mexico State was placed on probation for three years, mainly for football irregularities.

The University of Utah drew a one-year basketball tournament ban.

Approves Recommendation

The Council also approved the recommendation of the NCAA Executive Committee calling for national federations in track and field and gymnastics.

This action, subject to a full membership vote Saturday, further widened the split between the NCAA and Amateur Athletic Union over control of international sports teams.

New Mexico State, whose Warren Woodson was named the NCAA's small college football coach of the year for 1960, was found guilty on four counts involving football and track in 1959 and 1960.

The Council, besides placing New Mexico State on probation for three years, also banned the school from the NCAA-TV pro-TV program for three years and barred all Aggie teams in all sports for two years from participation in NCAA championship competition and NCAA-approved events.

Basketball-proud Utah was charged mainly with illegal handling of a basketball player no longer in school. The charge involved failure to repay a $150 loan, free transportation and payment for part time work not actually earned. Its penalty was a lone-year probation and being banned from the 1962 NCAA basketball championship tournament and other NCAA-approved meets such as the National Invitation and the Christmas tournaments.

Played In Bowls

Humboldt State College of Arcata, Calif., was cited for participation in two post-season football games, uncertified by the NCAA—one in Eureka, Calif., Dec. 3, 1960 and another a week later at St. Petersburg, Fla., in the NAIA Holiday Bowl.

Whitworth College of Spokane, Wash., lost to Humboldt in the game at Eureka with Humboldt advancing to sustain a loss to Lenoir Rhyne at St. Petersburg. Both colleges hold membership in the NAIA as well as the NCAA. But the NAIA events are not NCAA certified.

The council penalty against both Humboldt State and Whitworth was a one-year ban during which neither can participate in any post-season football competition.

The council cited New Mexico State for admitting seven football players, none identified, without meeting the university's regular entrance requirements. All seven were transfer students, three coming in 1959 and four in 1960. Another count involved an offer of illegal financial assistance to a football player by an assistant coach who since has been dismissed by New Mexico State. The coach was Noah Allen, who left the school in June, 1960.

Duke Cagers Top Clemson, 104-96

Duke's Jim Mullins and Art Heyman combined for 58 points between them as the Blue Devils raced to a 15-point first half lead and then almost frittered it away in the closing minutes.

With Duke leading 74-53, Clemson's Tommy Mahaffey staged a one-man show of his own to pull the Tigers back into contention. The rangy senior banged in 17 points in a seven-minute stretch to bring the Tigers to within 94-86. That was as close as Clemson could get, however.

Mullins, who scored 30 points, was credited with 14 of Duke's first 20 points. Heyman wound up with 28.

It was Duke's 10th win in 12 starts.

Short Recovers From Operation

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles received their first "dividend" Thursday on the $25,000 they paid last November to draft Billy Short from the New York Yankee farm club at Richmond, Va.

A half dozen bone chips were removed from the elbow last May and Short was sidelined for two months. He worked only 42 innings and post a 1-1 record with the International League team. Two years before he won 17 games for Richmond and was named the outstanding pitcher in the minor leagues.

San Diego Hopes To Sign Mitinger

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—The San Diego Chargers, who have come to terms with their fifth draft choice end Bob Mitinger and hope to sign him, awaited the outcome Thursday of talks between the Penn State star and his objecting father.

The elder Mitinger, a Greensburg, Pa., attorney, is reported to oppose his son's desire to play professional football. He also is reported to be handling Mitinger's dealings with the Chargers of the American Football League and the Washington Redskins who chose him in the third round of the National Football League draft.

Charger Coach Sid Gillman said Mitinger visited here after playing in the Hula Bowl in Hawaii and told him, "I'm with you. Go ahead and announce it."

Bruce Tests First Place Mt. Savage

Six PVC Games Are Listed; Petersburg Plays At Keyser

Allegany's Campers will be putting two home floor winning streaks on the line tonight when they engage Valley High's Black Knights in a W. M. I. League game at Campobello.

The Campers have a seven-game winning streak going, including four last season, and they've won four in a row from the Knights since 1957. In fact, that's the only game Valley has won here in eight visits and the score was 81-79. Allegany copped the opener at Lonaconing that year, 63-60. Allegany leads in the series, 11 wins to five. The schools have split even in eight engagements on the Valley court.

Both schools own 1-1 records in the W. M. I. League and are tied with Bruce and Fort Hill for the runner-up spot.

Bruce Hosts Leaders

Mt. Savage, the league leader with a 2-0 record, tackles the Bruce High Bulldogs tonight at Westernport. This is their 19th meeting in the league and Bruce holds an 11-7 edge in victories. The Bulldogs have won 6 of the 9 games at home and 5 of the 9 at Mt. Savage. Last season these schools met in a playoff for the Class B title which Bruce won, 67-48. During the regular season the Westernport team won at Mt. Savage, 61-37, and the Indians took a 57-55 decision on the Bruce floor. Mt. Savage and Beall will vie for the county Class A crown this year while Bruce remains in Class B with Valley.

The third game on tonight's W. M. I. League card brings together Beall's Mountaineers and the Fort Hill Sentinels here. Beall is winless in two league starts while Fort Hill has split even in a pair of games. Beall won at home last year, 57-43 but dropped a 73-71 decision here.

Vikings Visit Keyser

LaSalle is idle tonight but there are six Potomac Valley Conference games on tap.

In other Friday night action, Oldtown visits Capon Bridge, Circleville is at Green Bank, Wardensville at Hedgesville, Hyndman at Everett for the Bedford County League engagement, Bedford at Chestnut Ridge, Chambersburg at South Hagerstown and Frederick's Cadets at Martinsburg.

Filchock Fired As Denver Coach

DENVER (AP) — Frank Filchock was fired as coach of the Denver Broncos of the American Football League Thursday. Calvin Kunz, Bronco president, said Dean Griffing was retained as general manager.

His team won only 3 games against 11 losses last season for an over-all record of 7 won, 20 lost and 1 tied in the two seasons the AFL has operated.

Babe Herman Quits Job As Mets' Scout

Craig, Three Minor Players Sign Pacts

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets, new for '62 in the National League signed four players Thursday but lost a scout.

They also revealed they will spend at least $300,000 refurbishing the rundown Polo Grounds for the one season they'll have to play there before a new stadium is ready in suburban Flushing Meadows.

Signed contracts were received from pitchers Roger Craig, Al Jackson and Aubrey Gatewood and outfielder Jimmy Hickman. The same mail also brought a letter of resignation from Babe Herman, who had been scouting the Los Angeles area for New York's new baseball club. Herman gave no reason for quitting.

The Mets now have six players under contract. First to sign was veteran Ted Lepcio, picked up as a free agent, and the other was outfielder Frank Thomas, who had a contract with Milwaukee for '62 before the Mets bought him.

Craig, obtained from the Los Angeles Dodgers in the League "draft," had a 5-6 record last season. Gatewood, Jackson and Hickman, all youngsters, were in the minors last season.

The Mets, who already have sold more advance boxes than the Giants ever did, have arranged for a ticket office in Pennsylvania Station and others in a chain of 40 men's clothing stores.

Short Recovers From Operation

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles received their first "dividend" Thursday on the $25,000 they paid last November to draft Billy Short from the New York Yankee farm club at Richmond, Va.

After an x-ray examination, the 23-year-old left-handed pitcher from Binghamton, N. Y., was advised that he apparently has recovered completely from an operation on his left elbow.

A half dozen bone chips were removed from the elbow last May and Short was sidelined for two months. He worked only 42 innings and post a 1-1 record with the International League team. Two years before he won 17 games for Richmond and was named the outstanding pitcher in the minor leagues.

San Diego Hopes To Sign Mitinger

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—The San Diego Chargers, who have come to terms with their fifth draft choice end Bob Mitinger and hope to sign him, awaited the outcome Thursday of talks between the Penn State star and his objecting father.

The elder Mitinger, a Greensburg, Pa., attorney, is reported to oppose his son's desire to play professional football. He also is reported to be handling Mitinger's dealings with the Chargers of the American Football League and the Washington Redskins who chose him in the third round of the National Football League draft.

Charger Coach Sid Gillman said Mitinger visited here after playing in the Hula Bowl in Hawaii and told him, "I'm with you. Go ahead and announce it."

Bruce Tests First Place Mt. Savage

Six PVC Games Are Listed; Petersburg Plays At Keyser

Allegany's Campers will be putting two home floor winning streaks on the line tonight when they engage Valley High's Black Knights in a W. M. I. League game at Campobello.

The Campers have a seven-game winning streak going, including four last season, and they've won four in a row from the Knights since 1957. In fact, that's the only game Valley has won here in eight visits and the score was 81-79. Allegany copped the opener at Lonaconing that year, 63-60. Allegany leads in the series, 11 wins to five. The schools have split even in eight engagements on the Valley court.

Both schools own 1-1 records in the W. M. I. League and are tied with Bruce and Fort Hill for the runner-up spot.

Bruce Hosts Leaders

Mt. Savage, the league leader with a 2-0 record, tackles the Bruce High Bulldogs tonight at Westernport. This is their 19th meeting in the league and Bruce holds an 11-7 edge in victories. The Bulldogs have won 6 of the 9 games at home and 5 of the 9 at Mt. Savage. Last season these schools met in a playoff for the Class B title which Bruce won, 67-48. During the regular season the Westernport team won at Mt. Savage, 61-37, and the Indians took a 57-55 decision on the Bruce floor. Mt. Savage and Beall will vie for the county Class A crown this year while Bruce remains in Class B with Valley.

The third game on tonight's W. M. I. League card brings together Beall's Mountaineers and the Fort Hill Sentinels here. Beall is winless in two league starts while Fort Hill has split even in a pair of games. Beall won at home last year, 57-43 but dropped a 73-71 decision here.

Vikings Visit Keyser

LaSalle is idle tonight but there are six Potomac Valley Conference games on tap.

Filchock Fired As Denver Coach

DENVER (AP) — Frank Filchock was fired as coach of the Denver Broncos of the American Football League Thursday. Calvin Kunz, Bronco president, said Dean Griffing was retained as general manager.

Filchock, former National Football League player and later a coach in the Canadian Football League, was not present.

His team won only 3 games against 11 losses last season for an over-all record of 7 won, 20 lost and 1 tied in the two seasons the AFL has operated.

Babe Herman Quits Job As Mets' Scout

Craig, Three Minor Players Sign Pacts

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets, new for '62 in the National League signed four players Thursday but lost a scout.

They also revealed they will spend at least $300,000 refurbishing the rundown Polo Grounds for the one season they'll have to play there before a new stadium is ready in suburban Flushing Meadows.

Signed contracts were received from pitchers Roger Craig, Al Jackson and Aubrey Gatewood and outfielder Jimmy Hickman. The same mail also brought a letter of resignation from Babe Herman, who had been scouting the Los Angeles area for New York's new baseball club. Herman gave no reason for quitting.

The Mets now have six players under contract. First to sign was veteran Ted Lepcio, picked up as a free agent, and the other was outfielder Frank Thomas, who had a contract with Milwaukee for '62 before the Mets bought him.

Craig, obtained from the Los Angeles Dodgers in the League "draft," had a 5-6 record last season. Gatewood, Jackson and Hickman, all youngsters, were in the minors last season.

The Mets, who already have sold more advance boxes than the Giants ever did, have arranged for a ticket office in Pennsylvania Station and others in a chain of 40 men's clothing stores.

New York Yankees Are Voted Year's Outstanding Team In AP Poll

Green Bay Packers Close Second In Annual Ballot

Boston's Celtics Finish Third And Alabama Is Fourth

By BE NOLAN

It's baseball's New York Yankees over pro football's Green Bay Packers for the 1961 team of the year.

The results of the voting by 156 sportswriters and broadcasters participating in the annual Associated Press year-end poll showed Thursday that the Yankees and Packers crushed all opposition just as they did in winning their championships.

Ralph Houk's World Series winners collected 225 points and the National Football League titleholders had 213. The Boston Celtics, champions of the National Basketball Association, finished third with 109, followed by Alabama, the national college football champions, 66; baseball's Cincinnati Reds, 54; Ohio State's basketball team, 51, and Cincinnati's NCAA basketball victors, 35.

Yanks Get 58 Votes

The tally was made on the basis of three points for each first place vote and two for second and one for third. The Yankees picked up 58 votes for first place and Green Bay 35.

New York, with a 109-53 record, won the American League pennant by eight gamesover second-place Detroit and slugged a record 240 homers.

Then the bombers went to work on Cincinnati's National League champs, crushing the Reds in a five-game series to capture the title for the first time since 1958.

Green Bay easily took the Western Conference title in the NFL for the second consecutive year. The Packers won 11 games, lost three and scored a league-leading 391 points. They capped a tremendous campaign by crushing the New York Giants 37-0 in the championship playoff.

Celtics Make Runaway

The Celtics captured the 1960-61 NBA crown by defeating the St. Louis Hawks in five games and then opened the 1961-62 season by compiling a runaway 28-5 record through games of Dec. 31. Unbeaten Alabama overpowered 10 teams and wound up in No. 1 spot in the final Associated Press college football poll.

The Reds' baseball team won 93 games and lost 61 for their first pennant in 20 years. Ohio State's cagers were unbeaten through 27 games during the 1960-61 season before losing to Cincinnati in an overtime NCAA final.

Three football teams, Ohio State, the pro Giants and Texas rounded out the top ten.

Carry Back To Run In Hialeah Special

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Florida-bred Carry Back, winner of the 1961 Kentucky Derby and 3-year-old champion last year, will make his first start as a 4-year-old Jan. 31, trainer Jack Price said Thursday.

Price said he plans to start the speedy son of Saggy-Joppy in the $25,000 added Royal Palm Handicap at Hialeah.

BUSY DAYS AHEAD — Star rookie pitcher of the Yankees in 1961, Roland Sheldon has a busy schedule ahead of him. Seen at Woodstock, Conn., Roland will quit his classes at the University of Connecticut January 22, be married to Wanda McConnell in Lee's Summit, Mo., January 30 and reports to the Yankee training camp in Florida February 5. Pipers, Steers To Open Series

Kansas City Site For Opener Tonight

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Kansas City Steers, boasting the best record in the American Basketball League, meet the only team holding a winning margin over them, the Cleveland Pipers, in the opener of the first-half season playoffs here Friday night.

The best-of-three series between the champions of the league's Eastern and Western divisions will move to Cleveland for the second game Saturday night and, if necessary, a third game Sunday.

Kansas City, which clinched the Western Division title last week, enters the playoff with a 28-12 record. The Pipers have inflicted four of those losses, the latest being a 115-110 overtime decision on Wednesday night which gave Cleveland the Eastern Division championship. The Pipers have a 24-18 record for the first half.

The winner of the first - half playoffs will meet the second-half champion in late March to determine the final league champion.

16 Packers And Giants Play Sunday

NFL East And West Game At Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The National Football League's best players—minus the No. 1 among them—square off Sunday in what almost looks like a rematch of the NFL title game.

Eight Green Bay Packers and eight New York Giants—nearly 25 per cent of each squad—will be in the Eastern and Western Division lineups. But missing is the NFL's most valuable player, Paul Hornung, who is still driving jeeps at Ft. Riley, Kan.

12th Annual Game

One element is certain to be different: The weather. Fans shivered in 21 degree temperature two Sundays ago in Green Bay. The weatherman here looks for clear mid-60 to upper-60 air at Los Angeles Coliseum, which should allow attacks to open up more and pass receivers to grab the ball with greater ease.

Tittle Versus Starr

The Giant-Packer battle begins at quarterback, with Y. A. Tittle opening for Allie Sherman's East team and Bart Starr throwing for Norm Van Brocklin's Westerners.

Each will have a favorite end in the lineup—Del Shofner from the Giants and Max McGee from the Packers.

The primary fullback battle pits Green Bay's Jim Taylor against Cleveland's Jim Brown. But New York's Alex Webster is available to spell Brown and lend title game atmosphere.

Elsewhere on offense, Green Bay has center Jim Ringo and tackle Forrest Gregg. Each club has a defensive halfback—Packer Jess Whittenton and Giant Erich Barnes. Each has a linebacker—Bill Forester and Sam Huff.

The East also has two New York ends, Jim Katcavage and Andy Robustelli, and a safety, Jim Patton. The West has Packer tackle Henry Jordan.

Skiing Conditions Are Good At Davis

DAVIS, W. Va. (UPI) — Skiing prospects appear rather good this week end for those planning to take to the slopes of nearby Cabin Mountain.

The Commerce Department reported Thursday that plenty of snow is already on the upper slopes, while the lower slope has fairly good skiing conditions. Two tows will be in operation during the week end.

However, at Weiss Knob, also located near here, there is a lack of good snow and no skiing appears in prospect this week end.

Short To Wed

GEORGETOWN, Del. (AP) — Chris Short, southpaw pitcher for the Philadelphia Phillies, will be married here Saturday to Merle Ann Jones, 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Jones of Rehoboth Beach, Del.

New York Yankees Are Voted Year's Outstanding Team In AP Poll

Green Bay Packers Close Second In Annual Ballot

Boston's Celtics Finish Third And Alabama Is Fourth

By BE NOLAN

It's baseball's New York Yankees over pro football's Green Bay Packers for the 1961 team of the year.

The results of the voting by 156 sportswriters and broadcasters participating in the annual Associated Press year-end poll showed Thursday that the Yankees and Packers crushed all opposition just as they did in winning their championships.

Ralph Houk's World Series winners collected 225 points and the National Football League titleholders had 213. The Boston Celtics, champions of the National Basketball Association, finished third with 109, followed by Alabama, the national college football champions, 66; baseball's Cincinnati Reds, 54; Ohio State's basketball team, 51, and Cincinnati's NCAA basketball victors, 35.

Yanks Get 58 Votes

The tally was made on the basis of three points for each first place vote and two for second and one for third. The Yankees picked up 58 votes for first place and Green Bay 35.

New York, with a 109-53 record, won the American League pennant by eight gamesover second-place Detroit and slugged a record 240 homers.

Then the bombers went to work on Cincinnati's National League champs, crushing the Reds in a five-game series to capture the title for the first time since 1958.

Green Bay easily took the Western Conference title in the NFL for the second consecutive year. The Packers won 11 games, lost three and scored a league-leading 391 points. They capped a tremendous campaign by crushing the New York Giants 37-0 in the championship playoff.

Celtics Make Runaway

The Celtics captured the 1960-61 NBA crown by defeating the St. Louis Hawks in five games and then opened the 1961-62 season by compiling a runaway 28-5 record through games of Dec. 31. Unbeaten Alabama overpowered 10 teams and wound up in No. 1 spot in the final Associated Press college football poll.

The Reds' baseball team won 93 games and lost 61 for their first pennant in 20 years. Ohio State's cagers were unbeaten through 27 games during the 1960-61 season before losing to Cincinnati in an overtime NCAA final.

Three football teams, Ohio State, the pro Giants and Texas rounded out the top ten.

Carry Back To Run In Hialeah Special

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Florida-bred Carry Back, winner of the 1961 Kentucky Derby and 3-year-old champion last year, will make his first start as a 4-year-old Jan. 31, trainer Jack Price said Thursday.

Price said he plans to start the speedy son of Saggy-Joppy in the $25,000 added Royal Palm Handicap at Hialeah.

BUSY DAYS AHEAD — Star rookie pitcher of the Yankees in 1961, Roland Sheldon has a busy schedule ahead of him. Late Rally Sends Stock Prices Ahead Sharply

NEW YORK (UPI) — A late rally sent stock prices ahead sharply Thursday as the investment community apparently attached bullish implications to the President's State of the Union message.

Many Wall Street observers detected an inflationary inference in the President's request for authority to cut taxes in the event of a recession but cited his omission of any request to raise taxes as a possible inflation-slowing measure.

Experts said that no other facets of the speech, including possible tariff cuts and tax credits on capital expenditures, had been discounted by the market previously.

A comparatively narrow total of 1,280 issues were traded. Of these 667 advanced, 7 to new highs, and 402 declined, 17 to new 1961-62 lows.

Standard & Poor's 500 stocks rose 0.41, indicating a paper gain of nearly $2.9 billion.

Dow-Jones Industrials rose 4.65, chiefly reflecting gains of 3⅞ in DuPont, 2 in Sears Roebuck, and 1⅝ in Swift, the last aided by an advisory service recommendation. Other pivotal features included United Aircraft, American Can, and Standard Oil of California up more than a point.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Active selling shaved over a cent from wheat and corn futures Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Oats closed easier, while rye and soybeans were mixed.

Wheat ended off 1 to 1¼, corn off 1¼ to 1¾, oats off ¼ to ½, rye off ½ to up ½, soybeans off ¼ to up ¾.

Some speculators sold corn on the belief that the Commodity Credit Corp. was selling at a heavy rate. One report said the government sold 18 million bushels last week.

Exporters said Britain bought 1,200,000 bushels of corn, while Italy took 400,000 bushels and Holland 200,000 bushels. Parcels of beans were sold to Japan.

Outside markets were mixed.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Late Rally Sends Stock Prices Ahead Sharply

NEW YORK (UPI) — A late rally sent stock prices ahead sharply Thursday as the investment community apparently attached bullish implications to the President's State of the Union message.

Many Wall Street observers detected an inflationary inference in the President's request for authority to cut taxes in the event of a recession but cited his omission of any request to raise taxes as a possible inflation-slowing measure.

Experts said that no other facets of the speech, including possible tariff cuts and tax credits on capital expenditures, had been discounted by the market previously.

Trading volume amounted to 3,390,000 shares, up slightly from the 3,300,000 in the prior session.

A comparatively narrow total of 1,280 issues were traded. Of these 667 advanced, 7 to new highs, and 402 declined, 17 to new 1961-62 lows.

Standard & Poor's 500 stocks rose 0.41, indicating a paper gain of nearly $2.9 billion.

Dow-Jones Industrials rose 4.65, chiefly reflecting gains of 3⅞ in DuPont, 2 in Sears Roebuck, and 1⅝ in Swift, the last aided by an advisory service recommendation. Other pivotal features included United Aircraft, American Can, and Standard Oil of California up more than a point.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Active selling shaved over a cent from wheat and corn futures Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Oats closed easier, while rye and soybeans were mixed.

Wheat ended off 1 to 1¼, corn off 1¼ to 1¾, oats off ¼ to ½, rye off ½ to up ½, soybeans off ¼ to up ¾.

Hedge sales and liquidation dropped all deliveries of corn to new lows for the season.

Some speculators sold corn on the belief that the Commodity Credit Corp. was selling at a heavy rate. One report said the government sold 18 million bushels last week.

Wheat fell back under commission liquidation and local selling. Early buying based on pending export business helped cushion the decline.

Deferred rye futures firmed early, but prices dropped back on talk that no export business was imminent.

Exporters said Britain bought 1,200,000 bushels of corn, while Italy took 400,000 bushels and Holland 200,000 bushels. Parcels of beans were sold to Japan.

Outside markets were mixed.

Ganoe Cow Wins Honors For December Butterfat

Tina Marie, a grade Holstein owned by Ernest L. Ganoe Jr., RFD 2, Frostburg, was the December butterfat champion of Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association No. 1 with 73 pounds of butterfat in 1,560 pounds of December milk.

Mr. Ganoe had two other cows among the 11 top butterfat producers last month, according to the report of Harry E. Miller, supervisor. His other cows were tied for sixth and tied for tenth.

Actually, Shumaker Brothers of Rawlings had more of the top producers than any other herd, five of the 11. Their cows placed second, third, tied for fourth, eighth and tied for tenth. The association's second best producer was Shumaker Brothers' No. 254, also a grade Holstein, with 68 pounds of butterfat in 2,180 pounds of December milk.

James E. Miltenberger, RFD 1, Ridgeley, had only one cow on the select list but she was tied for fourth. The other two cows honored last month belong to Workman Brothers, RFD 1, Frostburg. They were tied for sixth and ninth.

During December, there were 237 cows from this association on test. They averaged 736 pounds of milk, 26.6 pounds of butterfat and 3.62 per cent butterfat.

Parent-Child Study Program Is Announced

Parent-child study material which will be projected on a television program originating in Washington next month will be incorporated into a workshop later this year by the pupil personnel department of Allegany County public schools.

Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of the department, said yesterday the television program will feature Dr. Daniel A. Prescott, director of the Institute of Child Study at the University of Maryland, and will be entitled "High School Youth."

This will be the third in a series designed to develop understanding of growing individuals from infancy to early maturity.

The program will explain the development task of young persons 13 to 20 years of age, with emphasis on factors which influence their learning and behavior and with consideration of anxieties, pressures and frustrations which young people face.

The televised program will be on WTOP-TV, Channel 9, Cable 2 at 6:30 a. m. every Tuesday and Thursday beginning February 6 and ending May 24, said Mr. Higgins.

Any teacher, principal or parent may take the course for non-credit for a fee which includes the cost of the textbook.

If taken for credit the individual pays a registration fee plus the cost of the textbook and he or she will be credited with three semester hours at the university.

Those taking the course for credit must go the college campus on Saturdays from 9 to 11 a. m. beginning February 17 or at Room 200, Skinner Building on the Baltimore campus Thursday from 7 to 9 p. m. beginning February 15.

Here in Allegany County the pupil personnel department will view the televised program and at the end of the present child-study program will hold a one-day workshop.

At this time a review of the material presented in the telecast and textbook will be made.

The spring meeting will be organized and developed by the pupil personnel department and child study leaders, said Mr. Higgins.

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 95 Same month, November 1861, framing of a constitution for a new state, West Virginia, was begun in a convention at Wheeling, a capital, Carson City, was chosen for the new Territory, set apart from Utah. West Virginia was to be the 35th state admitted to the Union, Nevada the 36th.

Nevada attracted thousands of men away from where armies were being formed and engaging. A contemporary Nevada historian wrote in far out phraseology, ". . . over 50,000 of the brightest, bravest, most generous, enterprising and energetic men on earth, the Knight Paladins who challenged the brute forces of Nature to combat, the soldiers who, possessed with the aura sacra fames, faced the storm and the savage, the desert and disease, swarmed around the base of Mt. Davidson and reached out to Aurora, to Reese River and the mountains of the Humboldt. Crawling like huge flies over the bald skulls of lofty mountains, plodding across alkaline deserts which pulsed with deluding mirages under the throbbing light, camping amid rocks worn out in the conflicts of chaos, and thrown away upon the world, smiting with pick and hammer the adamantinendoors of the earth's treasure chambers, these pioneers engaged their self-appointed task . . ."

That self-appointed task was the panning, digging or acquirement by other means of some of the gold and silver discovered in 1858 to exist in big quantities in the Nevada region. Samuel L. Clemens ("Mark Twain"), aged 26 in 1861, was one of the Knight Paladins who stuck to a self-appointed task in the gold fields while warfare waged fiercely in his home state of Missouri.

Doubtless there were Southerners, too, in the gold rush, but the sentiments expressed among those who swarmed along the gold and silver bearing hillsides and creeks of the Humboldt were predominantly pro-Union.

A respectable number of old-timers and transients in Nevada did not stop at mere expressions of sentiment, but marched off to war. Six companies of infantry and six companies of cavalry were raised in the Territory.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

The transcontinental line, opened in 1861, carried news east of rousing action of Raoul Gradley [↑] of Austin, who toted sacks of flour the breadth of Nevada's gold regions, auctioning them repeatedly for funds for the Sanitary Commission. (That was the Civil War forerunner of the Red Cross in taking care of wounded soldiers.)

The fire brigade of the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company was also represented at the opening class which was in charge of Robert "Skip" Smith, instructor from the Fire Service Extension of the University of Maryland, sponsors of the school.

The next session will be held at the fire hall on February 12.

Haberlein Files For Sheriff's Post

Paul C. Haberlein became the third official candidate in Allegany County when he filed as a Republican candidate for sheriff just before the office of the County Board of Election supervisors closed at 4 p. m. yesterday.

Sheriff Haberlein, who has served in that capacity since his appointment January 12, 1959, announced Tuesday night that he would seek a full four-year term as sheriff. Former Governor Theodore R. McKeldin appointed Mr. Haberlein in one of his last acts. He filled the vacancy caused when Sheriff Edward R. Muir resigned because of ill health. Sheriff Muir died last September 14.

Register of Wills James M. Roby, another county official serving by appointment, filed Monday subject to the May 15 Republican primary.

C. William Welsh was the first to file, back in November. He is a Republican candidate for county commissioner.

Cobey Affirms Appeals Board

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey yesterday affirmed a decision of the Board of Appeals of the Maryland Department of Employment Security in a case involving George R. Thorpe, RFD 2, Frostburg.

Mr. Thorpe was discharged effective last April 28 by Maryland Mills of LaVale because of continuous violation of overloading the truck which he drove. It was contended that he failed to shift his load of soya flour after unloading part of the flour and thereby caused an overload on certain axles.

The appeals board denied Mr. Thorpe unemployment compensation for a period of six weeks after his discharge.

Judge Cobey made his decision after hearing argument by Mr. Thorpe's attorney, John C. Sullivan, and J. N. Phillips, general counsel for the State Department of Employment Security.

Toastmasters List January Speakers

The Allegany County Toastmasters Club has announced its schedule of speakers for January in connection with an educational program on Civil Defense.

Last night Harry McCunn spoke before the Westernport Elementary School PTA.

Monday, January 15, John Dermid will be the speaker at a meeting of the South Cumberland Lay Health Group at the Health Center at 8 p. m.

Conservation Aid Offered County Farmers

Fourteen conservation practices are listed in the 1962 Agricultural Conservation Program for Allegany County, Miss Elizabeth A. Hoover, manager of the local Agricultural Stablization and Conservation office, said yesterday.

The available practices include application of liming materials; seeding of permanent legumes and grasses; establishment of stripcropping system; planting of trees; fertilizer to improve vegetative cover on permanent pasture; developing springs and seeps for livestock water; improvements of a stand of forest trees; constructing sod waterways; establishment of permanent vegetation; establishing diversion terraces; construction of open drainage ditches; construction of tile drainage ditches; cover crops for winter protection, and establishing vegetation cover to provide wildlife feed plots.

The local SC office is opening a drive to interest county farmers in the ACP program which helps farmers to conserve not only their soil but also the water that falls on their land. Under this program, individual farmers form a partnership with the federal government, under which each shares about half of the actual cost of carrying out practices directed toward conserving the nation's agricultural soil and water resources.

Through the ACP program, any landowner, operator, tenant, or sharecropper who has a conservation problem which can't be met with his own resources may request his local ASC county committee to provide a share of the cost of needed conservation practices that are included in the county program.

The farmer chooses one or more practices in the program which would help solve his conservation problem and indicates the number of units (acres, ton, cubic yards, etc.) of each practice for which he needs cost-sharing.

The county committee considers his request in the light of his conservation needs on his farm in relation to the needs of other farms in the county and the advisability of investing public funds to meet the request. If the request is granted in whole or part, the farmer is informed of the approval and of the actal amount of cost-share he will receive when the practice is completed according to specifications.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Park That Gum—Before You "Meet The People"

If you and your co-workers were to participate in a popularity poll at the office or shop, you'd probably be able to predict in advance just which women would be in the running for "best-liked" kudos.

Would it surprise you to learn that I, too, can pick the winners . . . even without knowing any of you? My "system" is easier than extra—sensory perception, just because I can tell precisely the type who NEVER win such "office-Oscars."

I'm not talking about the bossies and the meanies and the lazies, either. I'm talking about perfectly nice women, willing workers, who could be tops in charm—if it weren't for their annoying little nervous mannerisms. Whatever triggers their nerves at the outset may be entirely understandable . . . but they lose sympathy as soon as they find their only release in uncounscious ugly habits.

Gum-addicts belong to this group. Rarely do they stay content with quiet unobstructive mastication. They get much more satisfaction out of loud popping and snapping . . . and they do it continuously.

In the same oral category, we find the steady smokers and snackers, never caught without something in their mouths. They can become so dimly aware of their habit that it doesn't even perturb them to serve callers and customers while their mouths are full.

If the boss doesn't crack down on the most obvious habits—like eating, chewing gum and smoking on the job—then, the sense of common courtesy should persuade offenders to control themselves. Such habits can be broken, once a woman wakes up to them.

But WHO is going to wake her, if her boss can't or won't lay down the law? Perhaps she'll read this column and will open her own eyes. If so, she'll be wise to take one of her fellow-workers into her confidence, to give her a gentle reminder of her lapse—much as sensible sleepy-heads learn to rely on alarm clocks.

Thus prodded each time she persists in her habit, she'll teach herself to stop before she starts . . . and to recognize, at the moment, her need to give vent to her nervous energy. That's the exact time she should take her coffee break . . . or make a brief excursion to the employees' lounge. It's the change of pace, change of scene, change of duty—at the moment—that will substitute release for tension in a socially acceptable way.

If she STILL must have her apple, her cigarette or her stick of gum, at least she'll be having them in privacy, in the setting where such forms of relaxation are appropriate.

By the way, have you managed to excuse yourself from my list of losers—because all you do is whistle while you work? Or hum a little tune?

Then, open YOUR eyes, too, my dear. Perhaps you'd better sign up for the company choral society.

The less noise the better when you take "Your Steps to a Successful Career"—so, quietly now, send for my pamphlet of that title. Mail your request to me, c/o this newspaper, enclosing 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ganoe Cow Wins Honors For December Butterfat

Tina Marie, a grade Holstein owned by Ernest L. Ganoe Jr., RFD 2, Frostburg, was the December butterfat champion of Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association No. 1 with 73 pounds of butterfat in 1,560 pounds of December milk.

Mr. Ganoe had two other cows among the 11 top butterfat producers last month, according to the report of Harry E. Miller, supervisor. His other cows were tied for sixth and tied for tenth.

Actually, Shumaker Brothers of Rawlings had more of the top producers than any other herd, five of the 11. Their cows placed second, third, tied for fourth, eighth and tied for tenth. The association's second best producer was Shumaker Brothers' No. 254, also a grade Holstein, with 68 pounds of butterfat in 2,180 pounds of December milk.

James E. Miltenberger, RFD 1, Ridgeley, had only one cow on the select list but she was tied for fourth. The other two cows honored last month belong to Workman Brothers, RFD 1, Frostburg. They were tied for sixth and ninth.

During December, there were 237 cows from this association on test. They averaged 736 pounds of milk, 26.6 pounds of butterfat and 3.62 per cent butterfat.

Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of the department, said yesterday the television program will feature Dr. Daniel A. Prescott, director of the Institute of Child Study at the University of Maryland, and will be entitled "High School Youth."

This will be the third in a series designed to develop understanding of growing individuals from infancy to early maturity.

The program will explain the development task of young persons 13 to 20 years of age, with emphasis on factors which influence their learning and behavior and with consideration of anxieties, pressures and frustrations which young people face.

Any teacher, principal or parent may take the course for non-credit for a fee which includes the cost of the textbook.

If taken for credit the individual pays a registration fee plus the cost of the textbook and he or she will be credited with three semester hours at the university.

Those taking the course for credit must go the college campus on Saturdays from 9 to 11 a. m. beginning February 17 or at Room 200, Skinner Building on the Baltimore campus Thursday from 7 to 9 p. m. beginning February 15.

Here in Allegany County the pupil personnel department will view the televised program and at the end of the present child-study program will hold a one-day workshop.

At this time a review of the material presented in the telecast and textbook will be made.

The spring meeting will be organized and developed by the pupil personnel department and child study leaders, said Mr. Higgins.

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 95 Same month, November 1861, framing of a constitution for a new state, West Virginia, was begun in a convention at Wheeling, a capital, Carson City, was chosen for the new Territory, set apart from Utah. West Virginia was to be the 35th state admitted to the Union, Nevada the 36th.

Nevada attracted thousands of men away from where armies were being formed and engaging. A contemporary Nevada historian wrote in far out phraseology, ". . . over 50,000 of the brightest, bravest, most generous, enterprising and energetic men on earth, the Knight Paladins who challenged the brute forces of Nature to combat, the soldiers who, possessed with the aura sacra fames, faced the storm and the savage, the desert and disease, swarmed around the base of Mt. Davidson and reached out to Aurora, to Reese River and the mountains of the Humboldt. Crawling like huge flies over the bald skulls of lofty mountains, plodding across alkaline deserts which pulsed with deluding mirages under the throbbing light, camping amid rocks worn out in the conflicts of chaos, and thrown away upon the world, smiting with pick and hammer the adamantinendoors of the earth's treasure chambers, these pioneers engaged their self-appointed task . . ."

That self-appointed task was the panning, digging or acquirement by other means of some of the gold and silver discovered in 1858 to exist in big quantities in the Nevada region. Samuel L. Clemens ("Mark Twain"), aged 26 in 1861, was one of the Knight Paladins who stuck to a self-appointed task in the gold fields while warfare waged fiercely in his home state of Missouri.

Doubtless there were Southerners, too, in the gold rush, but the sentiments expressed among those who swarmed along the gold and silver bearing hillsides and creeks of the Humboldt were predominantly pro-Union.

A respectable number of old-timers and transients in Nevada did not stop at mere expressions of sentiment, but marched off to war. Six companies of infantry and six companies of cavalry were raised in the Territory.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

The transcontinental line, opened in 1861, carried news east of rousing action of Raoul Gradley [↑] of Austin, who toted sacks of flour the breadth of Nevada's gold regions, auctioning them repeatedly for funds for the Sanitary Commission. (That was the Civil War forerunner of the Red Cross in taking care of wounded soldiers.)

Officers School Well Attended

An officers school which is being held at the Cresaptown fire hall got off to a successful start Monday night when 60 volunteer firemen from 12 companies throughout Allegany County showed up for the opening session.

The fire brigade of the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company was also represented at the opening class which was in charge of Robert "Skip" Smith, instructor from the Fire Service Extension of the University of Maryland, sponsors of the school.

The next session will be held at the fire hall on February 12.

Haberlein Files For Sheriff's Post

Paul C. Haberlein became the third official candidate in Allegany County when he filed as a Republican candidate for sheriff just before the office of the County Board of Election supervisors closed at 4 p. m. yesterday.

Sheriff Haberlein, who has served in that capacity since his appointment January 12, 1959, announced Tuesday night that he would seek a full four-year term as sheriff. Former Governor Theodore R. McKeldin appointed Mr. Haberlein in one of his last acts. He filled the vacancy caused when Sheriff Edward R. Muir resigned because of ill health. Sheriff Muir died last September 14.

Register of Wills James M. Roby, another county official serving by appointment, filed Monday subject to the May 15 Republican primary.

C. William Welsh was the first to file, back in November. He is a Republican candidate for county commissioner.

Cobey Affirms Appeals Board

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey yesterday affirmed a decision of the Board of Appeals of the Maryland Department of Employment Security in a case involving George R. Thorpe, RFD 2, Frostburg.

Mr. Thorpe was discharged effective last April 28 by Maryland Mills of LaVale because of continuous violation of overloading the truck which he drove. It was contended that he failed to shift his load of soya flour after unloading part of the flour and thereby caused an overload on certain axles.

The appeals board denied Mr. Thorpe unemployment compensation for a period of six weeks after his discharge.

Judge Cobey made his decision after hearing argument by Mr. Thorpe's attorney, John C. Sullivan, and J. N. Phillips, general counsel for the State Department of Employment Security.

Toastmasters List January Speakers

The Allegany County Toastmasters Club has announced its schedule of speakers for January in connection with an educational program on Civil Defense.

Last night Harry McCunn spoke before the Westernport Elementary School PTA.

Conservation Aid Offered County Farmers

Fourteen conservation practices are listed in the 1962 Agricultural Conservation Program for Allegany County, Miss Elizabeth A. Hoover, manager of the local Agricultural Stablization and Conservation office, said yesterday.

The program opened January 1 and Miss Hoover is now accepting requests from county farmers for assistance.

The available practices include application of liming materials; seeding of permanent legumes and grasses; establishment of stripcropping system; planting of trees; fertilizer to improve vegetative cover on permanent pasture; developing springs and seeps for livestock water; improvements of a stand of forest trees; constructing sod waterways; establishment of permanent vegetation; establishing diversion terraces; construction of open drainage ditches; construction of tile drainage ditches; cover crops for winter protection, and establishing vegetation cover to provide wildlife feed plots.

The local SC office is opening a drive to interest county farmers in the ACP program which helps farmers to conserve not only their soil but also the water that falls on their land. Under this program, individual farmers form a partnership with the federal government, under which each shares about half of the actual cost of carrying out practices directed toward conserving the nation's agricultural soil and water resources.

Through the ACP program, any landowner, operator, tenant, or sharecropper who has a conservation problem which can't be met with his own resources may request his local ASC county committee to provide a share of the cost of needed conservation practices that are included in the county program.

The farmer chooses one or more practices in the program which would help solve his conservation problem and indicates the number of units (acres, ton, cubic yards, etc.) of each practice for which he needs cost-sharing.

The county committee considers his request in the light of his conservation needs on his farm in relation to the needs of other farms in the county and the advisability of investing public funds to meet the request. If the request is granted in whole or part, the farmer is informed of the approval and of the actal amount of cost-share he will receive when the practice is completed according to specifications.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Park That Gum—Before You "Meet The People"

If you and your co-workers were to participate in a popularity poll at the office or shop, you'd probably be able to predict in advance just which women would be in the running for "best-liked" kudos.

Would it surprise you to learn that I, too, can pick the winners . . . even without knowing any of you? My "system" is easier than extra—sensory perception, just because I can tell precisely the type who NEVER win such "office-Oscars."

I'm not talking about the bossies and the meanies and the lazies, either. I'm talking about perfectly nice women, willing workers, who could be tops in charm—if it weren't for their annoying little nervous mannerisms. Whatever triggers their nerves at the outset may be entirely understandable . . . but they lose sympathy as soon as they find their only release in unconscious ugly habits.

Gum-addicts belong to this group. Rarely do they stay content with quiet unobstructive mastication. They get much more satisfaction out of loud popping and snapping . . . and they do it continuously.

In the same oral category, we find the steady smokers and snackers, never caught without something in their mouths. They can become so dimly aware of their habit that it doesn't even perturb them to serve callers and customers while their mouths are full.

Finger-drummers, tooth-pickers, pencil-chewers, face-makers, toe-tappers are other candidates on my list of losers.

If the boss doesn't crack down on the most obvious habits—like eating, chewing gum and smoking on the job—then, the sense of common courtesy should persuade offenders to control themselves. Such habits can be broken, once a woman wakes up to them.

But WHO is going to wake her, if her boss can't or won't lay down the law? Perhaps she'll read this column and will open her own eyes. If so, she'll be wise to take one of her fellow-workers into her confidence, to give her a gentle reminder of her lapse—much as sensible sleepy-heads learn to rely on alarm clocks.

Thus prodded each time she persists in her habit, she'll teach herself to stop before she starts . . . and to recognize, at the moment, her need to give vent to her nervous energy. That's the exact time she should take her coffee break . . . or make a brief excursion to the employees' lounge. It's the change of pace, change of scene, change of duty—at the moment—that will substitute release for tension in a socially acceptable way.

If she STILL must have her apple, her cigarette or her stick of gum, at least she'll be having them in privacy, in the setting where such forms of relaxation are appropriate.

By the way, have you managed to excuse yourself from my list of losers—because all you do is whistle while you work? Or hum a little tune?

Then, open YOUR eyes, too, my dear. Perhaps you'd better sign up for the company choral society.

The less noise the better when you take "Your Steps to a Successful Career"—so, quietly now, send for my pamphlet of that title. Mail your request to me, c/o this newspaper, enclosing 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fire Destroys Residence On Valley Road

Robb Family Loses All Possessions

Bowman's Fire Company received the call about 5:15 a. m. to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robb, but when firemen arrived the blaze already was out of control.

Capt. Vernon E. Durst of the fire company said firemen were hampered by the lack of water and near-zero temperatures.

He said when firemen arrived the flames already had reached the second floor of the 12-room house. Firemen said the fire apparently started in an overheated furnace.

Mr. and Mrs. Robb and two of their sons, ages 31 and 18, escaped in their night clothing but were not able to save any of their belongings.

The Robbs lived several miles from Bowman's Addition and firemen had to travel back and forth to secure water to fight the fire. Firemen said they also were hampered by the hoses and nozzles freezing during the trips to obtain water.

Mr. Durst said eight men from his unit responded and Bedford Road Company was called for assistance. A tank truck from the Bedford Road unit broke down on the way to the scene, but the company's pumper and eight men assisted in fighting the fire.

The Bowman's Addition company is collecting articles of clothing and household goods for the Robbs and anyone interested in donating anything should bring it to the fire hall or call PA 2-4455.

Keyser Youths Plead Guilty In Entry Case

Two Keyser, W. Va., area youths yesterday pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the Children's Methodist Home at Burlington, W. Va., at a hearing in Mineral County Circuit Court at Keyser.

The youths, Terry Kooken, New Creek, and Douglas Durst, Keyser, pleaded guilty to the charges at the hearing held before Judge David E. Cuppett Jr.

Judge Cuppett heard testimony in the case by Rev. T. E. Painter, Cpl. F. W. Armstrong and Reeves Taylor, prosecuting attorney for Mineral County.

Judge Cuppett set January 26 as the date for sentencing.

Youth's Term Suspended In Vandalism Case

Collins was arrested by State Police on a warrant charging him with damaging a telephone-tray device at Mason's Snack Bar drive-in, Baltimore Pike. Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt gave him a 60-day suspended jail sentence and ordered him to pay the damages, amounting to $118.

Magistrate Weatherholt noted there has been an increase of this type of vandalism in recent weeks, and warned that stiff penalties can be expected.

The proprietor of the snack bar interceded for the Collins youth and asked the magistrate to suspend the sentence. He agreed that the young man could work out part of the cost of replacing the device.

Collins told the court that he and some other young men "had been given a bottle of whisky" and they had been drinking all afternoon and evening. He said he did not remember much about the episode.

Weatherholt ordered the young man to refrain from drink, attend his school classes regularly, and report back to the court in 120 days, in six months, and in one year, to exhibit his grades and report on his general progress. He was released in the custody of relatives.

Magistrate Weatherholt observed that on the day before, three other young men, ages 18, 19 and 20, had been in his court charged with drunkenness and disturbing the peace.

He said they admitted buying a bottle of wine and a bottle of brandy at a local store. They were arrested after creating a disturbance at Bowman's Addition fire hall, where a teen dance was in progress. They were given suspended sentences with a warning and instructions to report to the court.

Zoning Board Gives Approval To Trailer Area

Liller's Proposal Gets No Opposition

Chelsie A. Liller yesterday received verbal approval from the Allegany County Zoning Board for his plan to establish a trailer court on the northerly side of McMullen Highway just beyond the Circle Inn.

No opposition to the proposed trailer court was presented at yesterday's meeting.

Everett G. Partridge, chairman, and Wilbur Johnson, the two board members present for yesterday's hearing, agreed that Mr. Liller should be allowed to establish his trailer court provided he complies with the regulations set forth in the county's interim zoning ordinance, which has been effective since November 1.

Leslie J. Clark, county attorney, pointed out these stipulations in questioning Mr. Liller and the latter agreed to comply with all of them. These provisions include a lot area of at least two acres with all trailers and buildings not less than 50 feet from every lot line. The cabins or trailer sites shall not occupy more than 25 per cent of the lot area and each lot used for a tourist camp shall contain not less than 2,500 square feet of area for each cabin or trailer site.

Earl E. Manges, attorney for Mr. Liller, pointed out to the zoning board that the area concerned is not suitable for any other use.

Mr. Liller said he plans to make the trailer court available for eight trailers at the start with the understanding that it might eventually be expanded to accommodate as many as 20 trailers with the approval of the Health Department. He plans septic tanks to take care of the sewage and would like to purchase his water from the city, if possible. If not, there is a spring on the premises which probably will suffice.

Some B & O Layoffs Are Temporary

Area Furloughs Reach 175 Mark

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad announced Thursday it has laid off a total of 1,795 of its 31,044 employes throughout the line's system.

The layoffs were attributed to a decrease in freight traffic.

A railroad spokesman said during the final quarter of 1961, it appeared that the road's business was picking up, so some workers were recalled. But the anticipated increase in business did not materialize to the extent expected, he said, so the layoffs were ordered.

About 175 workers on the Cumberland Division have been affected by the system-wide move which began early this month.

Big Savage Mountain had a 16-degree below zero reading early yesterday morning, while the overnight low in Cumberland yesterday was zero.

The official forecast today calls for considerable cloudiness, with highs in the 20s. A warmup trend is expected to move into the area tomorrow with the possibility of some snow flurries.

Mother, Four Children Die In Home Blaze

Father Escapes Fire Near Kingwood

KINGWOOD, W. Va. (UPI)—Five persons—a mother and her four small children-died Thursday when fire swept through their four-room frame home about six miles southeast of here.

The victims were identified as Mrs. Mary Catherine Reed, 22, and her children Catherine Louise, 6; Arnold Ray, 4; Linda Marie, 2 and Paul J., 1.

Reed was quoted by Preston County Sheriff Ralph H. Brown as saying he awoke early Thursday morning to find the room where the stove was situated in flames. He said he ran outside the house to see if the other parts were on fire, but could not make his way back inside.

Reed said he had decided to sleep near the fire stove because below-zero temperatures were expected and he wanted to tend the coal stove through the night.

Temperatures hovered at about 10 degree below zero at the time of the fire. Brown said the home was situated in an isolated section near Howesville and there were no neighbors or volunteer firemen close enough to help extinguish the blaze.

Fire Destroys Residence On Valley Road

Robb Family Loses All Possessions

A Valley Road family lost all of their possessions early yesterday morning when a fire destroyed their two-story frame house.

Bowman's Fire Company received the call about 5:15 a. m. to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robb, but when firemen arrived the blaze already was out of control.

Capt. Vernon E. Durst of the fire company said firemen were hampered by the lack of water and near-zero temperatures.

He said when firemen arrived the flames already had reached the second floor of the 12-room house. Firemen said the fire apparently started in an overheated furnace.

Mr. and Mrs. Robb and two of their sons, ages 31 and 18, escaped in their night clothing but were not able to save any of their belongings.

The Robbs lived several miles from Bowman's Addition and firemen had to travel back and forth to secure water to fight the fire. Firemen said they also were hampered by the hoses and nozzles freezing during the trips to obtain water.

Mr. Durst said eight men from his unit responded and Bedford Road Company was called for assistance. A tank truck from the Bedford Road unit broke down on the way to the scene, but the company's pumper and eight men assisted in fighting the fire.

The Bowman's Addition company is collecting articles of clothing and household goods for the Robbs and anyone interested in donating anything should bring it to the fire hall or call PA 2-4455.

Leslie J. Clark, county attorney, pointed out these stipulations in questioning Mr. Liller and the latter agreed to comply with all of them. These provisions include a lot area of at least two acres with all trailers and buildings not less than 50 feet from every lot line. The cabins or trailer sites shall not occupy more than 25 per cent of the lot area and each lot used for a tourist camp shall contain not less than 2,500 square feet of area for each cabin or trailer site.

Earl E. Manges, attorney for Mr. Liller, pointed out to the zoning board that the area concerned is not suitable for any other use.

Mr. Liller said he plans to make the trailer court available for eight trailers at the start with the understanding that it might eventually be expanded to accommodate as many as 20 trailers with the approval of the Health Department. He plans septic tanks to take care of the sewage and would like to purchase his water from the city, if possible. If not, there is a spring on the premises which probably will suffice.

About seven acres will be included in the trailer court at the start.

Area Furloughs Reach 175 Mark

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad announced Thursday it has laid off a total of 1,795 of its 31,044 employes throughout the line's system.

The layoffs were attributed to a decrease in freight traffic.

A railroad spokesman said during the final quarter of 1961, it appeared that the road's business was picking up, so some workers were recalled. But the anticipated increase in business did not materialize to the extent expected, he said, so the layoffs were ordered.

Some of the recent layoffs are temporary and the road expects that it may call back some workers at its Pittsburgh, Pa., locomotive repair shops "soon."

About 175 workers on the Cumberland Division have been affected by the system-wide move which began early this month.

Mother, Four Children Die In Home Blaze

Father Escapes Fire Near Kingwood

KINGWOOD, W. Va. (UPI)—Five persons—a mother and her four small children-died Thursday when fire swept through their four-room frame home about six miles southeast of here.

The victims were identified as Mrs. Mary Catherine Reed, 22, and her children Catherine Louise, 6; Arnold Ray, 4; Linda Marie, 2 and Paul J., 1.

The father of the family, coal miner Ray Reed, escaped with minor burns. He was treated at a hospital here and released.

Reed was quoted by Preston County Sheriff Ralph H. Brown as saying he awoke early Thursday morning to find the room where the stove was situated in flames. He said he ran outside the house to see if the other parts were on fire, but could not make his way back inside.

Reed said he had decided to sleep near the fire stove because below-zero temperatures were expected and he wanted to tend the coal stove through the night.

Temperatures hovered at about 10 degree below zero at the time of the fire. Brown said the home was situated in an isolated section near Howesville and there were no neighbors or volunteer firemen close enough to help extinguish the blaze.
